Welcome Competition
The All-Wing Plane
Somebody's Son
Ogden L. Mills Figures

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1930, King Features Synd., Inc.

LOS ANGELES, FEB. 10.—"Shell" oil, British concern, challenging American oil men in their own territory, orders five flying machines to speed up business. The example was set when Standard of Indiana and other American oil companies sent their directors and salesmen flying some years ago.

The extraordinary energy of the "Shell-Deterding" organization annoys some American oil men, no doubt.

But as they have always preached the great value of competition as compared with anything like public ownership, the oil corporations will doubtless welcome the British display of competing energy.

In developing airplanes the important thing is for engineers to think about flying without any imitation of birds or anything now existing.

Railroads would not have gone far if locomotive builders had tried to imitate the deer, producing a machine with four powerful legs or levers, pushing along the tracks like the legs of a running deer.

The Northrop Air Corporation, division of United Aircraft, has demonstrated something new here. The new plane, the "Northrop Allwing," is a flying metal wing, free from the "parasite wind resistance" of struts and other encumberances, to retard the plane's motion.

Able engineers interested in the new plane believe that, with the same horsepower, it will increase speed by from 25 to 30 per cent.

Young Mr. MacDonald, son of the British prime minister, leaves Los Angeles tomorrow for Washington, D. C., and, setting a good example, goes by airplane.

The younger MacDonald, wise young man, observes American conditions closely and refuses to be taken too seriously, saying, "I am only somebody's son."

There is a big difference between saying that and saying as some of our rich young gentlemen do, "I am the son of SOMEBODY."

Ogden L. Mills, assistant secretary of the United States treasury, in a few words convinces you that this country has genuine prosperity, if prosperity consists in getting more of life's good things than anybody else gets.

The United States has only 7 per cent of the world's population and yet, says Mr. Mills, "that 7 per cent consumes approximately 48 per cent of the world's coffee, 53 per cent of the tin, 56 per cent of the crude rubber, 21 per cent of the sugar, 72 per cent of the raw silk, 36 per cent of the coal, 42 per cent of the pig iron, 47 per cent of the copper and 69 per cent of the crude petroleum.

"Out of nearly 32,000,000 automobiles in the world on January 1, 1929, more than 24,000,000 were owned in the United States."

We certainly get our share. Perhaps the League Court will tell us we get too much.

Long ago good missionaries went to Batavia, N. Y., to convert the red men. Chief Red Jacket, who now has his fine bronze statue in a Buffalo park, listened patiently to the story of the crucifixion and said, "If you white men killed your God, that is shameful. But it is your affair, not ours. If he had come to us we should have given him a wigwam and treated him kindly. Do not try to make us responsible for what you white men did."

The death of Chief Big Spring, the best and once the richest Indian of the Glacier National Park reservation, reminds you that the Indian is still kind-hearted and generous, at least some times.

When severe weather in 1919 and 1920 reduced many Indians almost to starvation, Chief Big Spring killed his cattle, distributing the beef among them and gave his horses to those that had none. He died very poor.

Doubtless the Angel Gabriel kept a record of his deeds.

Physical limitations of the "Texas cattle tick" arouses the sympathy of proud man, because of his mental limitations. The State of Mississippi has built a double row barbed wire fence 60 miles long, the two rows of fencing 15 feet apart.

Ticks, falling from cattle on the far side of the fence can never reach Mississippi's cows, because the tick with his eight legs travels so slowly that it would take him one year to go 10 feet. And he lives only about eight months.

Man living about three score and ten, with all his struggling, travels only a few inches intellectually in that period and dies without getting anywhere "mentally," and dies, as he was born, WONDERING.

COMMITTEE FOR GARRETT INQUIRY

Warner Tells the Ways and Means Members He Has Money Enough for It

Without a dissenting vote, the House Ways and Means Committee today favorably reported the resolve providing for an investigation of retired Patrolman Oliver B. Garrett by the attorney-general's office.

Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner had earlier informed the committee that a fund of $15,000, which he considered ample, was available for the probe.

The measure will now be given a second reading in the House, which passed it before, and will then go to the Senate.

The ways and means hearing was on the financial aspects of the investigation with their relation to the budget and Warner's assurances removed any possibility of a lack of adequate finances standing in the way of the probe.

Today's was the first hearing on a Garrett bill not graced by the presence of Senator Joseph J. Mulhern for whose own bill asking a probe by the Legislature the present resolve was substituted.

For his usual insistence, however, Bernard J. Rothwell provided adequate substitution. Nothing since the strike of 1919 has caused greater uneasiness and apprehen-

Duce Sends His Aide to Visit Pope

Vatican City, Feb. 11 (AP)—The first anniversary of the signing of the historic Lateran treaties settling the long-standing controversy between the Holy See and the Italian Government was celebrated today.

Count de Vecchi, Italian ambassador to the Holy See, called at the Vatican shortly before noon to present the Government's congratulations to the pontiff. The parading of Premier Mussolini's black-shirted musketeers of his personal guard of honor through the center of the city caused rumors to fly quickly that the Duce would commemorate the anniversary by making his long-awaited visit to the Pope, but Count de Vecchi was alone when he arrived.

The count bore a big box containing the Italian Government's present to the Pope, a rochetto of fine old Venetian lace constituting one of the richest ecclesiastical vestments ever fashioned. Count de Vecchi called briefly on Cardinal Pacelli, who took over the post of papal secretary of state yesterday and then was given an audience by the Pope.

All Rome was beflagged in honor of the day and for the first time the papal flag made its appearance on the Castle Gandolfo, which will be used by the pontiff as his summer residence.

13 HURT WHEN 2 WORCESTER CARS CRASH

Motorman Badly Crushed as He Cries an Alarm to His Passengers

Worcester, Feb. 11—Thirteen persons were injured, one of them seriously, when two Worcester Consolidated trolley cars collided headon in Greendale today after one had left its own tracks.

Most painfully injured:

John Boudin, 56, of 10 Langdon st., Worcester, to Worcester City Hospital with injuries to right leg.

Nils Wist, 36, of 460 Burncoat st., Worcester, injuries to back.

Mrs. Mary Houghton, Greendale, injuries to knees.

L. P. Garland, Greendale, cuts and bruises.

WRECK IS PROBED.

A number of others were treated at the scene by physicians and sent to their homes.

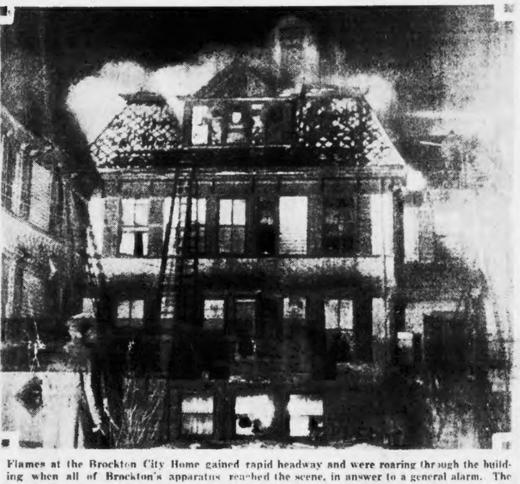
Where Woman and 2 Men Died in Flames



Flames at the Brockton City Home gained rapid headway and were roaring through the building when all of Brockton's apparatus reached the scene, in answer to a general alarm. The firemen were hampered by low water pressure. Owing to all the home records being lost in the fire, officials of the institution had some difficulty checking up the inmates.

VICTIMS ARE TRAPPED BY FLAMES IN CITY HOME

Woman Inmate Is Among Those Killed; Three Among the Injured May Die

Brockton, Feb. 11—Fire that swept through the Brockton City Home early today took the lives of three aged inmates, destroyed the poor farm and caused burns and injuries to nine men and two women.

A general alarm was sounded for the blaze, calling out every piece of apparatus, but because of low water pressure and the home's location on the top of a hill in Thatcher st., the flames gained great headway.

One of the dead is Mrs. Luella Bacon, 70. Her body was found in a hallway on the second floor. She is believed to have died from suffocation.

The body of George Brown, 78, was found on the third floor. It was badly burned.

On the stairway between the first and second floors, rear, the body of the third victim, Minot Copeland 67, was found. It also was burned almost beyond recognition.

Three inmates are dying at Brockton hospital. They are: Susan Sexton, 68, who was rescued while unconscious from the second floor.

Fred Stone, 60, found unconscious on the third floor with his night clothing burned from his body.

Daniel Denehy, 68, patient in the City Home infirmary, who suffered a shock during the excitement.

Mayor Harold Bent, who was early on the scene, ordered fire officials to begin an investigation of the fire. The belief is that it started in the laundry in the basement where painters have been at work for several days.

Firemen and police, aided by civilians, made many rescues during the sweep of the fire, in two cases saving women employes who darted into the burning building to save money and clothing.

The most difficult rescue accomplished was that of Mrs. Sexton, who weighs 300 pounds and who was found by Hoseman Fred Connover and John H. Hamilton, fire chief's chauffeur, when they were weak from smoke inhalation and were hastening to leave the building.

Connover and Hamilton stopped over her unconscious form. They stooped and tried to lift her. She was too heavy, however, and the best they could do was drag her through the hall to a window, out which they thrust her head and out which they held their own.

A ladder was raised, but when the firemen tried to handle the

EDISON IS 83; MEETS CRONIES

Ft. Myers, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—Greetings from around the world came to Thomas A. Edison today on his 83rd birthday.

While scores of congratulatory messages were received by the snowy-haired creative genius and winter neighbors arranged a celebration Mr. Edison apparently found his greatest pleasure in the presence of two old cronies, Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, who visit him regularly on his birthday.

Edison was characterized as "a living immortal" by Dr. Hamilton Holt, president of Rollins College, speaking at the dedication of the Edison memorial tablet in the City Park.

Asked the question, "How old do you feel?" Mr. Edison replied:

"Generally about 50 years, but lately some microbes have spotted me and did some experimenting with my internal machinery so I feel about 85 years."

He gave a low whistle as he sur-

SPEEDY TRIAL IN RUM PLOT

Milwaukee, Feb. 11 (AP)—Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran at a conference with district enforcement officers today said that wholesale indictments of firms "contributing to prohibition law violations" would be continued with the hope of obtaining an interpretation of the scope of the 18th amendment.

Chicago, Feb. 11—The federal Government, in Springfield, Ill., and Chicago, moved speedily today against two alleged sources of the nation's hybrid highballs.

In Chicago the United States district attorney announced that speedy trials would be sought for the 156 persons and 31 corporations indicted on charges of conspiring to violate the prohibition law by diversion of specially denatured alcohol to bootleg channels. Bench warrants for the arrest of those indicted were sought today.

Yeast and corn sugar were the ingredients that turned into federal indictments at Springfield. The Fleischmann Yeast Company and

Warrant for Buyer of Liquor Is Refused

U. S. Commissioner Edwin C. Jenney will issue no warrants for the arrest of liquor buyers.

That announcement, further complicating the recent grand jury indictment-for-purchase and U. S. Atty. Tarr's campaign against the buyer, was made by the commissioner in federal court today.

"I feel it my duty to decline to issue a warrant for purchasing liquor against anybody, prohibition agents or private citizens," he said in declining the request of Atty. Matthew J. McGrath for warrants against federal liquor sleuths, William J. Tobin and Walter Smeaton.

As a result the federal grand jury which last week returned an indictment for purchase against a Watertown resident, will be asked to indict the federal agents who on their own admission before Commissioner Jenney made purchases of liquor to obtain evidence.

"I will present the facts to the foreman of the federal grand jury and see this thing through to a finish," said McGrath, who is counsel for Thomas and Albert Freites, brothers, of Webster pl., North End, arrested on charges of sale and possession as a result of the evidence gathered by Tobin and Smeaton.

While the hearing before Commissioner Jenney was ostensibly to bring out enough damaging evi-

Fire and Blasts Sink German Liner at N. Y.

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—The North German Lloyd liner Muenchen burned and sank at her pier in the Hudson river today a short time after she had docked at the end of a voyage from Bremen.

In shipping circles the value of the liner was placed at $2,500,000 to $3,000,000 without cargo. No estimate could be made of the value of her cargo, which consisted of shellacs and paints.

Four explosions in a quantity of shellac occurred a few minutes after the fire was discovered in No. 6 hold, aft.

The flames spread with terrific speed after the explosions, and in a short time the liner sank.

Because the hull lies directly above the uptown Hudson tunnels, Chief Inspector John O'Brien of the New York police department, at 1 p. m., ordered all traffic through that tube withdrawn.

When the order closing the Hudson tubes was sent out, police were stationed at all stations from Christopher st. north and directed passengers to take the lower tube from Cortlandt st. or to take the ferries.

Inspector Obrien explained it was feared another terrific explosion such as shook the whole waterfront before the liner sank might crack the tube.

The Muenchen's stern lies in the mud directly above the tunnel through which the Manhattan Rail-

Cardinal O'Connell Stops Over in Nassau

New York, Feb. 11—Cardinal O'Connell of Boston failed to arrive here today on the liner Vulcania.

It was announced that he had left the boat at Nassau on his way home from a vacation in the West Indies.

Taft Shows Steady Gain, Say Doctors

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Attendants at the home of William Howard Taft said today that he continued to show the improvement that has marked his illness for several days.

The former chief justice was said to have spent a very restful night, awakening only twice for short intervals.

'NED' M'GLENEN IS DEAD

"Ned" McGlenen will never finish that book on Boston of Bygone Days.

The veteran ex-city registrar, who retired 11 days ago to go on a statistical "bust" on his own account, after compiling public statistics for more than three decades, died today at City Hospital.

His death was the culmination of a nervous breakdown and several years of ill health. He was nearly 76 when he retired on January 31 and had been in the city service for more than 39 years.

Upon retiring he said he was going to gather historical data, in which he had long been deeply interested, finish his book and take steps to have Boston's historic sites properly marked for posterity.

He lived at 8 Lombard st., Dorchester, and is survived by his wife Mary, and two sons, Edward W. McGlenen, Jr., and Harry A.

Although as registrar he had the power to perform marriages, and thus collect hundreds of dollars in fees, it was "Ned" McGlenen's boast that he had never done so because he believed marriages should be solemnized by clergymen.

He was born in the West End July 11, 1854, and was in the advertising business before becoming secretary to Mayor Matthews in 1891. In 1894 he was placed in charge of the ancient records department. Mayor Thomas N. Hart appointed him registrar in 1900, giving him full charge of the compilation of statistics of births, deaths and marriages.

Curley Appointees Called Into Parley

Four of Mayor Curley's appointees today were called into conference by the Civil Service Commission at the State House.

They were Theodore C. Haffenreffer and John J. Martin for park commissioners, Michael H. Corcoran for sinking fund commissioner and Helen C. Galvin for city registrar. The conference was private and no assurance was held out by the commission that it would act on the appointments today.

PARLEY WON'T SCRAP SUBS

London, Feb. 11 (AP)—The French naval delegates to the London conference were understood to have presented to Premier MacDonald late today their total naval tonnage needs approximately 790,000 tons. This figure was somewhat near the total of 799,000 laid before the French Parliament some time ago.

London, Feb. 11 (AP)—The five-power naval conference at 1 p. m. today concluded its fourth plenary session, during which the delegations of Great Britain and the United States called upon the world sea powers to abolish submarines.

France and Japan insisted upon their continuation, but the outlawry of their use in "inhuman" manner.

Italy announced herself ready to participate in discussions for abolition of the craft, although believing that in the present state they were necessary for smaller nations.

Out of the wealth of eloquent pleas for and against retention of these weapons grew formal resolutions which were generally taken

Girl Weeps 45 Hours, Cannot Be Stopped

Attleboro, Feb. 11—With physicians apparently powerless to aid her, Miss Violet Michaels, 19, of Ottawa st., afflicted with a quivering abdominal muscle, had wept for 45 hours at 4 o'clock today.

The girl has cried constantly since 7 p. m. Sunday, and although ether was administered yesterday to permit her to sleep, there seems no hope of bringing her sobbing to an end.

Miss Michaels makes her home with relatives in Ottawa st., while her mother, Mrs. Virginia Michaels resides in New Bedford.

On Sunday Mrs. Michaels visited her daughter, and it was after her departure that Violet began to weep.

Later Anthony Bosch of Ottawa st. called to take the girl to the movies. The pictures failed to prevent her from crying and the couple went for an automobile ride.

She was still weeping on her return home and cried all Sunday night. Yesterday Dr. E. R. White was called and administered ether, which permitted her to get some sleep during which she sobbed. He said the trouble was due to a quivering abdominal muscle, and the calling of specialists was being contemplated.

Six weeks ago Miss Michaels underwent an appendix operation, but apparently recovered without trouble.

woman on a single ladder it was found impossible. A second ladder was then raised and four firemen took her down between the ladders.

Six hours after the fire was discovered, a search of the ruins was begun in fear that more bodies might be hidden in the charred debris.

COOK GIVES ALARM

The fire started in the basement of the City Home, located on the east side of the town on a high hill. The building, a three-story wooden structure built in 1883, has in the rear a two-story brick infirmary, in which 12 patients were housed when the fire started.

Mrs. Annie Miskis, 50, cook at the City Farm, was in bed on the top floor when she was awakened by smoke.

Hastening downstairs she met Mrs. Cora Fraser, night nurse in the infirmary, while Mrs. Fraser was walking on the first floor from the sick bay to the main building.

The two women, alarmed at the increasing volume of smoke, went to the basement and found the place thickly clouded. Then, in a far corner, they saw the red flicker of flames.

Back to the first floor the women rushed and met Samuel La Crone, night nurse in the men's section of the home, and Mrs. Amelia Brown, matron.

La Crone was sent to sound an alarm, but found it impossible, because of the fast-spreading flames, to reach the fire alarm box on the first floor of the main building.

Instead, LaCrone telephoned fire headquarters and an alarm was sounded over the circuit from the central fire station. A few seconds after LaCrone telephoned, the light wires were burned through by the flames and all lights went out in both the main building and infirmary.

AROUSE INMATES

By this time the flames had worked well into the first floor and were licking up toward the second, running both inside the partitions and outside the walls.

Mrs. Miskis, Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Brown and La Crone raced hurriedly through the building, waking the inmates and assisting some out before firemen and police arrived.

When firemen connected up their lines and started to play water on the fire, they discovered that the pressure was not sufficient to send the streams up even to the second floor.

It was necessary to raise ladders to the third floor in order to play into the windows, and even then the pressure was not sufficient to send the stream wholly across a room.

RESCUERS RISK LIVES

Chauffeur Hamilton and Hoseman Connoyer were two of the first firemen into the building on rescue work and after their work with Mrs. Sexton, they had a brief breathing spell and again went back into the burning building.

City Councillor Ralph B. Feeney, notified of the general alarm, went to the scene and was just in time to assist in the rescue work, carrying out an unconscious inmate from the second floor.

Fire Chief John Murphy and Hoseman George N. Hall went to the third floor of the main building and found Stone, the inmate, who had been overcome and who would have been burned to death in another five minutes. His condition at Brockton Hospital is most critical of the three dying in that institution.

POLICEMAN HURT

After rescuing two aged inmates from the building, Patrolman Joseph McKenney ran back through the smoke again in a search for more and slipped on the stairway, where water had frozen.

The policeman was catapulted down the stairs and landed heavily at the bottom, injuring his back. He was taken to Brockton Hospital for treatment.

A few minutes later, Ladderman Fred Martz and Hosemen Joseph P. Murphy, Harry J. Bellmore and John J. Leonrad, who had carried out the body of a man from the second floor, slipped on the same ice-coated stairs, but in the resulting tumble the men broke each others falls and escaped with nothing more serious than a shaking up.

FIREMEN COLLAPSE

At about this time Mrs. Miskis remembered that she had left a large sum of money in her room, and with a shriek she ran back into the building.

Patrolmen Bronislaw Lucas and Thomas Burke went in pursuit, but lost her for some time in the smoke-choked structure. Finally they found her, groping the smoke and almost at the point of collapse. Her money and clothing were destroyed.

Hosemen John J. Coughlin and Harold D. Shurtleff had dragged a line of hose up to the second floor and were playing on the flames, when both men suddenly collapsed, overcome by smoke.

90 INMATES IN HOME

They were rescued by brother firemen.

At the height of the fire, Mrs. Betty Gordon, an employe at the City Farm for three years, arrived on the scene. She had been at the home of a friend, Mrs. Molly Bullock, a few doors away on Thatcher st., because the room Mrs. Gordon occupied in the poor farm had been painted and she feared the fumes would make her ill.

When she reached the fire scene she shrieked that she had left $150 in her room and she attempted to enter the building to rescue the money. She was prevented by firemen and police, however.

There were 90 inmats in the home, 12 of whom were in the infirmary at the time the fire broke out.

Although no fire reached the infirmary, smoke seeped into the building and water poured into the first floor, making it necessary to remove the patients on stretchers, to the second floor.

A barn in the rear of the home was not touched by the flames. Attendants assisted in the removal of 30 cows and 10 horses.

Edward Corson, superintendent of the City Home, was at his home on Myrtle st. when he received notification of the fire. He rushed to the scene and aided in the checkup of inmates, many of whom were still in the building when he arrived.

He directed firemen to passageways where two of the bodies were found.

Twelve patients in the infirmary building, a brick structure adjoining that destroyed, were removed to the second floor when water seeped into their ward.

Mrs. Miskis was asleep on the top floor. "I smelled smoke and got up to investigate," she said. "I started coughing and knew something was wrong. Putting on a wrap, I rushed down the three flights of stairs and met Mrs. Fraser, who was also tracing the smoke. We both started downstairs and met Mr. LaCrone.

"We all went to the basement and were nearly overcome by the blast of smoke and flame. I could see the blaze in the right of the basement, all centered in one section.

"We dashed upstairs again to sound an alarm."

FOLLOWED BY FIRE

Mrs. Amelia Brown, matron, played an important part in the rescue work. She arrived on the first floor when the trio dashed from the basement to sound the alarm. She sent LaCrone to telephone the fire department and, with two other women, hurried through the building to arouse the inmates.

"It seemed that the flames followed me when I reached the second floor," she said. "Below me the floor was a mass of fire. I kept on to the third floor, with Mrs. Miskis, the cook, and awakened the sleeping inmates. We had to help many get wraps and direct them to exits.

"From the third floor men and women rushed by me hysterical. The din was terrible. It seemed that the building was going to be consumed in a moment. When the fire department arrived I was at a window and had them raise ladders to bring some of those trapped there from the building.

"With the start the fire had before discovered and the success we had in arousing the inmates, I think everyone behaved wonderfully. It was a terrible sight."

LaCrone explained that he was on the first floor and smelled smoke before he met the women.

"I never saw a fire get such a start," he declared. "When we came from the basement I dashed for a telephone. I made an effort to sound an alarm, but the flames leaped so fast from the basement that I could not reach the box.

"The heat was terrific and it is a miracle to me that so many of the inmates, most of them elderly and infirm, under the exciting circumstances, got out as quickly as they did."

LaCrone paid tribute to Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Brown for remaining at their posts while flames fanned around them. He painted a graphic picture of the two women running through the building, getting the inmates out, at the risk of their own lives.

Two Brockton police department ambulances were on the scene and brought the injured to the Brockton Hospital. The bodies of those who lost their lives were taken to the Brockton Hospital morgue and held for identification.

Telephone operators at the Brockton exchange were on the job when the first alarm was sounded. They notified the staffs at the Brockton and Goddard Hospitals where preparations were immediately made to care for the injured.

The loss by the fire is estimated at $100,000.

Victims of Fatal Fire

The dead and injured inmates of the Brockton home are:

STEWARDESS INJURED

One man was said to have been swept overboard from the Muenchen in the first explosion, but was rescued by one of the tugs nearby.

Shortly after the ship sank it was officially stated that five persons, in addition to the stewardess, Mrs. Josephine Gehrke, and Capt. Gibney, were injured. All, including Capt. Gibney, were taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Capt. Michael Gibney of Engine Company No. 24, the first apparatus to arrive, was thrown heavily to the deck by the first explosion, and his shoulder was dislocated.

The 263 passengers had left the ship before the explosions and the crew was immediately ordered ashore.

As great clouds of black smoke enveloped the waterfront, a fifth alarm was sent in, calling out all the available fighting apparatus in New York city.

The Lackawanna railroad tug Newton, which had drawn up alongside the liner as the fire was discovered, was badly damaged in the first explosion. Her rear cabin was wrecked, her aft rails blown away, and all her windows smashed.

Despite this damage, the tug's crew continued to use the fire-fighting apparatus with which she is equipped.

FIRE STARTS IN SHELLAC.

The ship had docked at 9:10. The fire was reported shortly after 11. At 12:32, after the fifth alarm, the entire back end of the liner was aflame, and all the firemen had left the ship. They continued to play streams of water on her from the pier until she sank.

The fire broke out in Hold No. 6, aft, in which part of the shellac was stored, a short time after the liner had docked. It quickly spread to Hold No. 5 and the explosions followed.

Firemen who were on the pier shooting water into the hold were thrown off their feet by the blasts.

Though its passengers had all left the ship when the explosions occurred, many were still on the pier having their baggage examined by the customs men. They were ordered from the pier.

BLASTS RIP PLATES

The Muenchen listed heavily to port as she sank, and the flames continued to sweep along her top deck. Some of the crew just before the ship went down tried to go back after their belongings, but they were barred by firemen.

Fireboats operating from the river continued to shoot water at her top decks as she rested on the bottom. Firemen on the pier began spraying water on the wooden shed overhead.

The explosions on the ship tore away nearly all her aft railings, smashed all her windows and littered her aft decks with wreckage. Windows in Pier 41, a block away, were shattered. As more explosions followed, the ship's plates were ripped apart.

The Muenchen made her maiden voyage to New York in July, 1923, first German ship to enter the harbor after the World War.

She was launched at Stettin, Ger., in the spring of the same year. She was 551 feet long, 65 feet beam and with a gross tonnage of 14,000. She had accommodations for 1100 passengers.

Committee Votes for Garrett Inquiry

sion within the police department than the handling by its administration of the so-called Garrett case, he told the committee.

"Garrett may or may not have been as honest a policeman as ever wore the uniform of our municipal army. Be that as it may, his contemptuous attitude toward his superiors in the department, their indifference to his insubordination, their apparent disinclination to bring him to task, could [illegible] fail to weaken the morale of [illegible] force and create in the public mind suspicion of the reasons for its conspicuous failure to enforce discipline.

"Garrett's neglect on one excuse or another to obey orders, his virtual thumbing-his-nose at all from captain to commissioner, his defiant challenges to the department to take action against him or call for his resignation—a challenge not accepted—his bravado throughout, his final request for retirement with life pension, the unseemly haste with which that request was granted by the commissioner and approved by the then mayor—all give the impression that the general belief there is something rotten in Denmark is justified.

"This notorious scandal has injured the morale of the force and undermined the confidence of many responsible citizens. It is the inescapable duty of the legislature to provide for a thorough and impartial investigation of every phase of the problem."

Rothwell suggested that the investigation determine Garrett's income during each of five years prior to his transfer from the liquor squad, its source and disposition, whether any portion of it was deposited or invested in his own name, that of his wife or any other party, and if so on what date, where and in what amount; to what extent, if any, did income taxes paid by Garrett or his wife to the federal Government and to the State subsequent to his transfer exceed his salary as a police officer during the preceding three years; what other income Garrett and his wife had, and whether Garrett's recently determined incapacity is physical or mental and how long it has affected him.

Rothwell asked that it also be determined whether Garrett had business relations with an unnamed individual prominent in sports circles.

Marion C. Nichols, who also favored the investigation, declared Commissioner Wilson had a responsibility to know the source of income of a subordinate if that income reflected upon the police department.

The only person opposed was Edward L. Donnelly who, in answer to questions from Representative Henry L. Shattuck, said he was publisher of a "political review and gazette, with a place of business in Commercial st." He praised the police department, the commissioner and Garrett.

HEAVY VOTE IN 2D DISTRICT HOUSE FIGHT

Democrats See a Chance for Granfield; Reid Is Cutting Into Griggs' Strength

Springfield, Feb. 11—A much heavier vote than was anticipated was being cast today in the special election to determine the successor to the late Congressman W. Kirk Kaynor, in the second congressional district.

Democratic leaders, conceding the contest would be close, claimed the heavy vote indicated a trend in favor of their candidate, William J. Granfield.

Whitfield Reid, bone-dry independent, was said to be cutting into the vote of Frederick D. Griggs, Republican, whose election was urged in a special appeal by Senator Gillett. William H. Feiker, former Republican mayor of Northampton, who is running as a dry on stickers, was not receiving much support, it was understood.

In his message to the voters of the district, Senator Gillett pointed out that a Democrat never has held the congressional post and declared that Griggs possesses the personal qualifications to fill the office with credit.

Griggs' supporters were jubilant at the espousal by Senator Gillett, however tardy, and were convinced that it will furnish the impetus needed to put over their candidate in what is expected to be a close engagement.

It is expected that upwards of 40,000 votes will be cast and the Republican organization is relied on to rally sufficient support to elect Griggs in what is regarded as a "rehearsal for the approaching State election."

The district always has been Republican, but in recent years its margin has been none too comfortable to provide any feeling of security.

13 INJURED IN TROLLEY CRASH

ing an investigation to determine the cause of the accident, which was said to be unprecedented.

It occurred on W. Boylston st., in Greendale, about two miles outside the city proper.

A car southbound to Greenwood st., operated by Motorman Sweeney, unexpectedly jumped the tracks and plowing across to the other rails crashed into a trolley northbound to Summit st. and driven by Motorman John O'Connell, 44, of Vernon ter., Worcester.

O'Connell, just before the collision, set his brakes and leaped back into the body of the car shouting a warning to the passengers. With the crash both vestibules were demolished and Sweeney was pinned in the debris of the front end of his car.

There were but two passengers in one car and they escaped with a shaking up.

The injured were all aboard the trolley, a number of them being thrown to the floor by the impact, and one woman hurled over a seat.

A crowd collected and hurry calls were sent into Worcester for ambulances and physicians. Police and hospital ambulances responded, but it was found necessary to take only three of the victims to the hospital.

Long in Office

Edward W. McGlenen, former city registrar, who retired January 31 after 39 years in city service, died in the City Hospital today. His death was due to a nervous breakdown and several years of ill health. He had been city registrar since 1900.

JURY ACQUITS SULLIVAN IN AUTO CASE

Boston School Committee Member Is Found Not Guilty on 4 Charges

Edward M. Sullivan, former member of the Boston School Committee, on trial on charges of drunkenness, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, and driving so as to endanger the lives and safety of the public, was found not guilty on all charges by a jury in Suffolk Superior Court today.

On a fourth charge, that of leaving the scene of an acident without making himself known, the court directed a verdict of not guilty. The jury was out two hours, including time for dinner.

It was alleged that Sullivan's auto, on the night of Sept. 28, struck several others on Tremont st., near Massachusetts ave., South End.

The ex-school committeeman, testifying in his own behalf today denied he was under the influence of liquor and declared he had not had a drop that day.

He produced several witnesses who said they had been with him either during the day or evening and he had touched nothing.

John P. Feeney summed up for the defence and Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick M. J. Sheehan for the Government.

U. S. Pleads in Vain to Scrap Submarines

as meaning that submersibles will be continued but that their activities will be humanized" and that an effort will be made to restrict their size and number.

There was an air of tensity which no other plenary session has seen as the delegates of the sea powers faced each other to make their declarations regarding this problem which has torn the world since the day when the Lusitania was sunk with all aboard.

Two resolutions were introduced, one by the American delegation, proposing abolition of submarines as "an inhuman, expensive and unnecessary form of warcraft."

The other resolution, by the French, proposed a committee to prepare an agreement forbidding submarines to act toward merchant ships otherwise than in strict conformity with rules for surface craft.

JAPAN NEEDS SUBS.

At the conclusion of the session, Premier MacDonald referred the two resolutions to the committee of the conference for study and report.

The American viewpoint was presented by Secretary Stimson and that of Britain by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty.

George Leygues, French minister of marine, spoke for his government, Dino Grandi for Italy and Admiral Takarabe for Japan.

Admiral Takarabe declared the submarine was a necessary defensive and legitimate weapon of warfare, but said that Japan would associate herself with a movement to confine activities of submersibles within "legitimate channels."

First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander was the first to speak and in his opening sentence declared it "an honor and a heavy responsibility to be entrusted with the task of introducing for discussion the proposition of my colleagues that the use of submarines for purposes of war should be totally abolished.

"As regards those nations which wish to use submarines for the purely defensive purposes," he declared, "quite frankly we feel that those views are mistaken."

U. S. URGES ABOLITION

He was followed shortly by Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State and head of the American delegation, who called first upon the powers to abolish submarines and then showing the logic of his viewpoint declared:

"It seems to the American delegation that we have a common interest in the abolition of the submarine; first of all for the purpose of suppressing costly weapons which we can forgo by agreement and by the abolition of which we reduce our requirements in other classes of ships and second, for the purpose of eliminating in the future the dreadful experiences of the past.

"The American delegation, therefore urges that they set aside purely technical considerations and give careful study to the possibility of eliminating this whole problem."

Georges Leygues, minister of marine, declared flatly that France cannot do without submarines. He asserted that the French point of view had not altered since the Washington conference.

He explained this viewpoint, holding that the submarine is a defensive weapon which the naval powers cannot do without. But the use of the submarine, he said, "should and can be regulated like that of any other warship."

WOULD HUMANIZE.

At the Washington conference, France, he said, in a spirit of conciliation accepted a ratio for capital ships "clearly inferior to the level which her position in the world would have allowed her to reach on the express condition that she should keep her entire liberty as concerned defensive ships."

After asserting that there had been no change in the French viewpoint since the Washington conference, he said, however that France, would be willing to discuss a motion for abolition of submarines based upon three principles:

"First, the measure of lawfulness of any weapon of war deriving from the progress of science;

Second, the right of lesser powers to possess as sovereign states navies corresponding to their requirements and means of their national defense;

Third, freedom of the seas.

ITALY IS WILLING.

Dino Grandi, who followed, announced at the outset that Italy was willing to participate in a discussion for the abolition of submarines.

He said the Italian Government considers in the present state of armaments the abolition of the submarine would favor a stronger navy to the disadvantage of the less powerful, and would unjustly deprive the latter of this weapon without due regard to their possibilities of defense.

He said, however, that Italy did not object in principle to abolition, "if all the naval powers concurred therein, and if such abolition is to exert a decisive influence in bringing about that drastic reduction of armaments which the whole world desires."

In other words, the Italian spokesman made the abolition of submarines contingent on the simultaneous reduction of the larger categories of warships against which Italy considers the submarine is the weaker power's only defense.

CANCER-KILLING EXTRACT CREATES HELPFUL BLOOD CELLS

DISCOVERERS SEE GREAT RELIEF

Treatment of California Patients Described as Revolutionary in Its Effect

San Francisco, Feb. 11 (INS)—New observational proof that the extract of the cortex of the suprarenal gland brings about a radical change for the better in the systems of cancer patients has been revealed by Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber.

Drs. Coffey and Humber made this statement:

"We have found an extraordinary effect of our extract in cancer cases. It is this: The result of the injection is to stimulate the formation of new blood vessels around the cancer area.

"That is, nature increases the supply of the network of blood vessels in the region that surrounds the malignant tumors in the body, after the treatment with the suprarenal extract.

"Now, pathologists have not found before this any similar growth of blood vessels around cancer tissues. The fact that such a development of the blood circulatory channels follows the injection of our extract presents a new and most important challenge.

DESTROYS BAD TISSUES.

"Our hypothesis, rather our contention, that it is the only logical thing to assume is that nature establishes these new blood vessels in response to the action of the extract for a definite purpose related to the destruction of the cancer tissue.

"The extract, as you know, brings about a necrosis or death of the malignant or cancer cells. These dead cells soften into a semi-liquid substance. Now, the problem of the system is to get this debris removed as fast as possible. By absorption into the newly formed blood vessels the soughed off cancer cells can be eliminated from the cancer region and eventually removed from the patient's body.

"It is also rational to consider that the increase of these healthy blood vessels would assist in the building up of the normal tissues, to replace the dead and dying cancer tissues. This point requires further observational evidence that we are now looking for carefully.

COUNTERACTS DEFICIENCY.

"So far this new observation of ours appears to strengthen all the more our viewpoint that cancer is a systematic disease and results from deficiency of the hormonic stabilizer of growth. Evidently the extract counteracts this deficiency and one expression of that is the formation of these new blood vessels around the tumors when they begin to slough off after our treatment."

Dr. Humber who returned from Los Angeles after holding the second cancer clinic there, said:

"The effect of the first injection of our extract upon the patients in Los Angeles was certainly striking.

"One case particularly caused considerable surprise even to me. I had given only one injection eight days ago. But already there was a marked condition in the size of the tumor and it had visibly softened or jellied.

"The tumor in this case was outside, on the neck and so the effect of the extract injection was quite obvious to the naked eye. We are keeping photographic records of all the series of neorotic changes of these malignant tissue. These records would be of normal interest to scientists who are wanting to understand the nature of malignant tissues and the laws of their growth and decay."

REVOLUTIONARY EFFECT.

Doctors Coffey and Humber averred that so far as they are able to ascertain their extract is the only sort that acts potently on cancer when injected away from the cancer area.

"Several scientists have injected various substances, including glandular emulsions and mineral things," they said. "But whenever their injections have shown any dying of the cancer cells, that was because the injections were made directly into the cancer areas. Now, if you inject only distilled water into a cancer some of its tissues would die.

"It is quite a different matter to bring the death of the cancer cells by the injection into the system far remote from the malignancy itself. And that is what our extract injection accomplishes, hence, its revolutionary significance."

"Fighting Police Chief" Dies at 76

Ware, Feb. 11 (AP)—Maurice Fitzgerald, 76, former chief of police of this town and sheriff of Hampshire County, died today in Springfield. During his incumbency as chief of police, from 1892 to 1909, Fitzgerald earned a reputation as a two-fisted fighter, and his bravery became proverbial. He figured in numerous gun fights, the most serious when he was shot four times while arresting Frank F. Hennon, a notorious burglar, who committed suicide after his arrest.

He never fully recovered from the effects of his encounter with Hennon and the wounds he suffered then were a factor in his death.

HUB UTILITIES COMPANY SOLD

By Associated Press.

The Grafton, Millbury and Oxford water companies are included in the sale of the holdings of the Atlantic Public Utilities Corporation of Boston to the Eastern States Public Service Corporation of New York, according to an announcement made today by A. M. Symonds of Grafton, resident agent of the company in this section.

The new concern, which will be managed by the United States Engineering Corporation of New York, has taken over the holdings of the Atlantic Public Service Utilities system in Massachusetts as well as in 15 other states.

In addition to the Worcester County holdings the Atlantic Utilities served the towns of Provincetown and Salisbury. Mr. Symonds said he estimated that the sale price of the Atlantic Utilities was about $60,000,000.

Chase & Gilbert, Inc., of Boston, formerly owned the Millbury and Grafton water companies and the Oxford Water Co. recently was taken over by the Atlantic interests. The home office of the company will be moved from Boston to New York.

John Gilbert and Jim Tully in Fisticuffs

Los Angeles, Feb. 11 (AP)—John Gilbert, film star, and Jim Tully, writer, today admitted having exchanged blows in a Hollywood cafe.

"I don't care to talk about it," said Gilbert, who with his wife, Ian Claire, actress, is spending a week at Palm Springs. "I did only what any man would have done under the circumstances."

"I did what you or anybody else would have done if a man had come charging across a room at you," Tully declared. "I got up and knocked him down."

Other diners, who unwittingly had purchased ringside seats with their coffee, described the scene in greater detail.

They said Tully was seated with May Cruze, sister of Jane Cruze, the director, and Nicholas Kelly, when Gilbert entered with Miss Claire and Sid Grauman.

Gilbert shouted something to Tully about an article he had written two years ago in a magazine in which the actor was mentioned. Tully replied, and after exchanging more words, Gilbert took off his overcoat and charged.

Tables were upset, chairs kicked about and Gilbert was knocked down. At this point bystanders interfered, and the actor was persuaded to leave, Miss Claire joining him at the door.

Kemal Tells 'Em What They'll Eat

Angora, Turkey, (AP)—Ghazi Mustpha Kemal, hurler of mighty thunderbolts, is throwing himself into a revolution of bread and water.

In an editorial just published by the official organ Milliet, a deputy writes:

"A race which is not well nourished and which has not organized its manner of living well, in time gives signs of degeneration. Parliamentary commission is elaborating a law which will make white bread taboo and which will establish a uniform wheat, rye, and corn mixture to be eaten throughout Turkey.

ST. GODARD STILL LEADS

Shakers Village, N. H., Feb. 11 (AP)—Emil St. Godard, The Pas, Manitoba, who started at scratch, was the first of the field to reach the half-way mark here in today's 30-mile leg of the 90-mile New England sled dog derby. His time for the 15 miles was 1 hour 6½ minutes. He also drove the fastest race yesterday.

The trail today was the same as that of yesterday, from Laconia to Belmont, through Shakers Village, back to Belmont and then into Laconia again. The mushers are competing for two series of prizes. The three best net times will receive awards totaling $1000 and the three fastest teams will divide $800. Other smaller money prizes will be awarded.

Ike Lagasse of Lochmere, N. H. followed St. Godard today. His time was 1 hour 8 minutes.

Roland Lombard of Raymond, Me., who had the best net time yesterday, and Earl Bridges, Manitoba musher, followed in 1 hour, 9 minutes.

Georges Chevrette of Quebec was next. His time was 1 hour 9 minutes and 24 seconds.

The other nine dog teams trailed down to that of Mrs. E. P. Clark of Franconia Notch, whose time was 1 hour, 41 minutes.

Cold weather today favored both dogs and drivers. The huskies seemed to respond to the frigid temperature with greater efforts.

Rescue Parties Seek Snowbound Climbers

Barcelona, Spain, Feb. 11 (AP)—Rescue parties are taking food and medical supplies to almost 150 mountain climbers who are believed to be snowbound without provisions in the Eastern Pyrenees.

The climbers were taken by surprise by a sudden storm, which caused snowfall as far south as Seville.

U.S. HOLDS BOAT AS RUM-RUNNER

New London, Ct., Feb. 11 (AP)—The fishing boat Gander, of Bridgeport, believed to have been the rum-running craft which escaped under a hail of machine gun fire Friday morning, and its captain, Arthur Roland, were surrendered to customs authorities here today by Attorney Louis Halley of New York city.

A preliminary hearing followed and was continued one week in order to have witnesses on hand. The Gander was released in the custody of his attorney.

According to customs officials, the Coast Guard plans to lodge several charges against the Gander, including that of carrying illicit liquor, failing to stop when ordered by a Coast Guard vessel, resisting arrest, and running without lights.

Late this afternoon the Coast Guard patrol boat CG-241 arrived at the customs wharf and members of her crew began a minute examination of the Gander to see if she had any trace of bullet holes.

ARREST 710 IN CHICAGO RAIDS

Chicago, Feb. 11 (AP)—Chicago's drive against gangsters and hoodlums was given fresh impetus today with the reported indictment of 19 gunmen caught in the recent round-up of underworld haunts. These reported indicted included Carl Hanson, Chicago and James Riley, Detroit, shot and taken prisoner during hold ups.

Chicago, Feb. 11 (INS)—Continuing their city-wide raids on dives and hoodlum hangouts, the police today had jailed 710 men since the showup Sunday night.

The systematized drive on the underworld is showing definite results, police said, for only 13 robberies were reported during the last 24 hours.

This was a marked reduction in contrast to last week's reign of terror which saw nine men slain by gangland's warring factions, a half dozen major bombings and countless holdups and robberies.

Of the 710 arrested, 85 were found to have criminal records.

Block Rum Trials by U.S. Commissioners

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Failure of an important part of the national law enforcement commission's program for stricter observance of the prohibition laws, for the time being at least, was indicated todap after members of the House judiciary subcommittee made it known that action on bills to broaden the powers of United States commissioners had been postponed indefinitely.

The measures, introduced by Rep. Christopherson, (R), South Dakota, would in effect give federal commissioners the power to try minor prohibition cases. Their passage, as a means of relieving the congestion in federal courts, was strongly advocated by Chairman Wickersham of the commission and one of the common members, Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard.

Pound argued that the measures would do away with the right of trial by jury, and that they would go a long way toward clearing federal court dockets.

Members of the subcommittee made it known today, however, that they are still in doubt about the constitutionality of the bill and that some of them also doubted that they would materially aid courts.

The committee's action was regarded in a number of quarters as as setback for this phase of the law enforcement program so far as the present session of Congress is concerned.

The House already has passed another measure recommended by the committee and President Hoover, the Williamson bill to transfer the prohibition enforcement unit from the Treasury Department to the Justice Department. The Senate has yet to act upon it.

The $15,000,000 appropriation for the prohibition bureau was left undisturbed today by the Senate appropriations committee in reporting favorably the annual supply measure for the Treasury and Postoffice Departments. Senator Harris (D.) of Georgia, and a leader of the drys who last year attempted to have the enforcement fund raised, said he had made no move toward an increase.

NEW HEAD FOR DRY ARMY

San Francisco, Feb. 11—Alf Oftedal is scheduled to become national director of prohibition enforcement when that activity is transferred from the Treasury to the Department of Justice, the Examiner has learned from an authoritative source.

Oftedal, prominent in California politics and a powerful figure in Federal affairs, conferred with Atty.-Gen. Mitchell in Washington during the day. The new job of enforcement head was proffered to him then, it is understood.

He had been summoned to Washington by the attorney-general from his office as head of a special intelligence unit for the bureau of internal revenue in Los Angeles, to which he was appointed recently.

It is known in federal circles that when Oftedal was appointed a deputy to Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran in the Treasury Department considerable friction developed between him and his chief.

Dry Chief Says N. Y. Police Fail to Enforce Rum Law

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Maj. Maurice Campbell, prohibition administrator for New York, today said that New York has less prohibition than it had before federal prohibition.

He accused Mayor James J. Walker and Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen of refusing to invoke state laws which they are sworn to enforce and ridiculed a crusade against crime, which, he said, fails to attack the speakeasy as a crime condition.

Maj. Campbell made his charges before 50 Brooklyn clergymen meeting as the moral reform commission of the Brooklyn Federation of churches.

"Before prohibition the saloons were licensed and their conduct was under the supervision of the city authorities and the police," Maj. Campbell said. "Today the speakeasies might be said to be non-existant insofar as police activity is concerned."

90 Dogs Burn in Irene Castle "Home"

Chicago, Feb. 11 (AP)—Ninety dogs were burned to death today in a fire which destroyed Irene Castle McLaughlin's refuge for stray dogs at Deerfield, a suburb.

Cries of the helpless animals awakened nearby residents. Firemen lacked water with which to fight the flames. Telephones in the kennels, known as "Orphans of the Storm," and at the McLaughlin home in suburban Lake Forest were out of commission, and police said the possibility of arson was under investigation.

Elusive Bonds Hold Up Textile Merger

Fall River, Feb. 11—Officials of the Parker Mills and a local trust company have been engaged during the past few weeks in tracking down an issue of bonds put out by the textile company 18 years ago, in order to effect a merger of the Parker Mills and the Berkshire Fine Spinning Associates.

The delay in rounding up the holders of these securities has set back the proposed merger until March 1.

BORAH IN FIGHT ON HUGHES IN SENATE

Carter Glass Also Lined Up Against Confirmation of New Chief Justice

Washington, Feb. 11 (AP)—Increased opposition to Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice of the United States was developing in the Senate today, threatening a final vote on confirmation by nightfall.

Senators Borah (D.), Idaho and Carter Glass (D.), Virginia, were listed today among the opponents of the former Supreme Court jurist and Republican presidential nominee, as Senate leaders began to sound out sentiment preparatory to resuming consideration of the Hughes nomination.

There were indications that Borah would follow up the attack launched in the Senate yesterday by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska.

Administration leaders, however, were confident of early confirmation of Hughes despite the unexpected opposition.

Most of the Democrats were said to be in favor of confirmation, acting Democratic leader, voted for Senator Walsh, of Montana, the a favorable report of the nomination in the judiciary committee yesterday and all other Democrats on the committee who were present did likewise.

Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, who blocked the vote on confirmation yesterday until he could receive word from the physicians of William Howard Taft as to his condition, was non-communicative today.

Blease has urged that Taft be reappointed as chief justice. Newspapermen tried to learn what information he had received from Taft's physicians. He sent back word that he had received some personal word but that this was his business and the business of the man who gave it to him.

TORCH SLAYER IS INSANE

Salem, Feb. 11—George J. Breton, 44, alleged "torch slayer" of his wife, Caroline, in Methuen last June, was adjudged not guilty of murder by reason of insanity today in Superior Court.

Judge David A. Dillon after receiving the directed verdict from the jury, ordered Breton sent to Bridgewater State Hospital for life.

Breton is alleged to have crushed his wife's skull with an Indian club in their home and then to have set fire to the room. The body was not consumed, however.

Dr. George W. Kline, head of the State Department of Mental Diseases; Dr. Clarence Cronin and Dr. Guy Randall of the Danvers State Hospital all testified that they examined Breton periodically during the three months he was under observation and had found him to be insane.

In their belief they said, he was insane last June 7 when the murder was committed.

POSSES HUNT 'TORTURER'

Atlanta, Feb. 11 (INS)—Atlanta's entire man-hunting machinery was thrown into use today in a search for a "torturer" who slugged a 19-year-old girl, burned her tongue with iodine, slashed her in a dozen places with a razor, and left her gagged and dazed on the sidewalk near her home.

The girl, who is in a critical condition, told detectives that she was slugged by a mysterious man who she said had been "watching her" for several weeks, and who would "disappear every time I looked at him."

Physicians said the girl was suffering from shock and loss of blood. They held hope for her recovery.

Governor Dillon's Baggage Stolen

Mexico City, Feb. 11 (INS)—Gov. C. A. Dillon of New Mexico who came to Mexico City to attend the inauguration of President Ortiz Rubio, en route home today, left behind him in old Mexico something more tangible than the memory of a few passing hours.

Some thieves stole all the Governor's baggage.

TAX COLLECTOR ACCUSED AGAIN

Harpswell, Me., Feb. 11—Tax Collector Alfred D. Palmer was believed to be in Boston today trying to straighten out with a bonding company the question of an alleged shortage of $4600 in his accounts with the town treasurer.

Palmer left town a few hours after he had appeared in Brunswick Municipal Court to press a complaint of larceny against an 15-year-old fisherman's boy accused of breaking into his store. He is married and the father of four small children.

Harpswell voters, numbering but a few hundred in the little town of 1242 souls, had tacitly forgiven Palmer for a $3700 shortage in his accounts last year by re-electing him as tax collector of the western division after he had paid every cent of the money back.

veyed the 24 questions that had been typewritten for him to answer. He sharpened his pencil and set to work. He answered the questions at the rate of one a minute.

"In your opinion when will television be practical for the home?" was one question.

"Some day."

"What age do you consider electrical development in today—childhood, adolescence, maturity or old age?"

"Childhood."

"The five-day week?"

"O. K."

"Can you tell us of the greatest disappointment you encountered in your work; also the greatest satisfaction?"

"I am always disappointed until a problem is solved. Not more than one out of twenty of the details work at first."

"Commercial aviation?"

"Do more experimenting to increase safety before commercializing too much."

"Do you think a young man graduated from high school would derive greater benefit by spending four years at the average modern university or by entering business immediately?"

"The way things are today, I should say enter business."

"Do you think there is life on other planets besides the earth, and do you think we may some day communicate with them?"

"I could guess, but won't."

"What is the greatest educational force operative today?"

"Young men's desire for a technical education."

"What will become of the common laborer when the full automatic machine eliminates hand work?"

"He will own a home and a lot of new things providing alcohol does not interfere."

"Would proposed modifications of the Volstead law to permit home manufacture of light wines and beer help the cause of temperance?"

"No."

"Will 'absolute' prohibition be accomplished in the United States?"

"Yes."

"Have inventive substitutes for heat and fuel progressed to the point where we may no longer worry about the depletion of natural gas, oil and wood fuel supplies?"

"Not yet."

"Is the 'machine age' increasing, or hampering man's creative genius?"

"Increasing it."

"In your opinion, do developments in electrical and poisonous gas destructive elements make impossible, or highly improbable, another war?"

"No."

He said he expected that first single unit of goldenrod, the species he is using in experimenting on the production of rubber, will be perfected in two or three years and that he "probably will perfect it at Henry Ford's place near Savannah, Ga."

While Mr. Edison was writing the answers, the announcement was made that he will soon offer another scholarship similar to the contest held recently to select the most scientifically minded youth.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

BYRD'S SUPPLY SHIP AGROUND

London, Feb. 11 (INS)—The Eleanor Bolling, supply ship for the Antarctic expedition headed by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd ran aground near Dunedin, New Zealand, according to a Central News dispatch from Auckland.

The dispatch added that the commander of the ship hoped to refloat her shortly.

The Eleanor Bolling recently failed in an attempt to find passage through the south polar ice pack to Little America, where Admiral Byrd and his companions are located.

Admiral Byrd then ordered the ship, by radio, to return to Dunedin while the City of New York, flagship of the expedition, continued to try to find a way through the ice.

IT IS 'TARIFF NOW OR NEVER'

Washington, Feb. 11 (INS)—The long-pending tariff bill will be held before the Senate, to the exclusion even of appropriation bills, until it is passed, Senator Watson (R.) of Indiana, majority leader, announced today.

He was joined by LaFollette (R.) of Wisconsin, in declaring objection would be made to consideration of any other legislation until the tariff was passed.

"If we sidetrack the tariff even for appropriation bills," said Watson, "we'll never pass it."

WILKINS POLAR PARTY 'SAFE'

By VICTOR OLSEN

Wireless operator of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic expedition at the Deception Island base station

(Copyright, 1930, by the San Francisco Examiner and Universal Service, Inc. Copyrighted in Great Britain, France, Germany and all other countries. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part.)

Deception Island, Antarctica, Feb. 11 (via KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station)—After two weeks' ominous silence, the steamship William Scoresby, base ship of Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins' Antarctic operations, has at last been heard from.

News that the missing party had been heard from was received at the base radio station here. The message said:

"Scoresby heard from 110 G. M. T. (9 a. m., Eastern Standard Time")."

The message came from one of the whalers that has been attempting to find the Scoresby and its party since they vanished more than two weeks ago after setting out through a sea of broken ice in an attempt to find a taking off place for Wilkins' proposed Ross Sea flight over the polar cap.

Attempts are being made to re-establish communication with the Scoresby to learn what, if any, difficulty the party may have encountered. It is believed that some accident may have disabled the base ship's radio or that unusual weather or atmospheric conditions may have made it temporarily impossible for the ship to communicate with this base.

It is thought that Wilkins and the three aides who are here with him are still aboard the Scoresby.

The Weather

For Boston and vicinity—Fair tonight; Wednesday partly cloudy and warmer; moderate northerly winds shifting to east and south. The minimum temperature tonight will be near 28.

For Southern New England—Partly cloudy tonight; Wednesday increasing cloudiness and warmer; moderate north winds shifting to east.

For Northern New England—Partly cloudy tonight, colder in eastern Maine; Wednesday increasing cloudiness, rising temperature followed by snow or rain in Vermont; moderate variable winds shifting to west and [illegible].

For Eastern New York—[illegible] not quite so cold [illegible] Wednesday increasing cloudiness and warmer followed by rain [illegible] moderate northeast winds.

OCEAN FORECAST

Steamers departing today for European ports will have moderate north and northwest winds becoming fresh and possibly strong off the coast and mostly overcast weather to the Grand Banks.

PLAN TO RAISE LAKES' LEVEL

Washington, Feb. 10 (INS)—Deepening of the Great Lakes by construction of compensating works in the St. Clair river and contraction works in the Niagara is proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Chalmers (R.) Ohio.

The proposed works, he said, would raise the level of Lake Erie 7-10ths of a foot and Lakes Huron and Michigan a foot each.

Half of the cost of $3,400,000, Chalmers said, would be borne by the Chicago sanitary district, under the agreement by which it is withdrawing water from Lake Michigan for sanitary purposes.

HOW FORD METHODS CUT COST OF DISTRIBUTION

Lower profits in selling save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in manufacturing

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago the Ford Motor Company was formed to provide reliable, economical transportation for all the people. That original purpose has never changed. The constant effort in every activity is to find ways to give you greater and greater value without extra cost—frequently at lowered cost. This applies to distribution and similar important factors, as well as manufacture.

For the Ford Motor Company believes that its full duty is not only to make a good automobile at the lowest possible price, but to see that there is no waste, extravagance, or undue profit in any transaction from the time the car leaves the factory until it is delivered to your home. It is obvious that hard-won savings in production will be of little value if they are sacrificed later through excessive selling costs.

EVERY purchaser of a motor car has the right to know how much of the money he pays is for the car itself and how much is taken up by dealer charges. If these charges are too high, one of two things must happen. Either the price of the car must be raised or the quality lowered. There is no other way. The money must come from somewhere.

In the case of the Ford, the low charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories mean a saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser in addition to the still greater savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

The profit margin on the Ford car has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

Attempts are being made to re-establish communication with the Scoresby to learn what, if any, difficulty the party may have encountered. It is believed that some accident may have disabled the base ship's radio or that unusual weather or atmospheric conditions may have made it temporarily impossible for the ship to communicate with this base.

It is thought that Wilkins and the three aides who left here with him are still aboard the Scoresby.

The Weather

PLAN TO RAISE LAKES' LEVEL

Washington, Feb. 10 (INS).—Deepening of the Great Lakes by construction of compensating works in the St. Clair river and contraction works in the Niagara is proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Chalmers (R.) Ohio.

The proposed works, he said, would raise the level of Lake Erie 5-10ths of a foot and Lakes Huron and Michigan a foot each.

Half of the cost of $3,400,000, Chalmers said, would be borne by the Chicago sanitary district, under the agreement by which it is withdrawing water from Lake Michigan for sanitary purposes.

Minister Washburn Home From Austria

New York, Feb. 11 (AP).—Albert H. Washburn of Middleborough, Mass., United States minister to Austria and professor of international law at Dartmouth College, returned today with Mrs. Washburn on the liner Mauretania.

He will go directly to Washington and report to the State Department.

HOW FORD METHODS CUT COST OF DISTRIBUTION

Lower profits in selling save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in manufacturing

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago the Ford Motor Company was formed to provide reliable, economical transportation for all the people. That original purpose has never changed. The constant effort in every activity is to find ways to give you greater and greater value without extra cost—frequently at lowered cost. This applies to distribution and similar important factors, as well as manufacture.

For the Ford Motor Company believes that its full duty is not only to make a good automobile at the lowest possible price, but to see that there is no waste, extravagance, or undue profit in any transaction from the time the car leaves the factory until it is delivered to your home. It is obvious that hard-won savings in production will be of little value if they are sacrificed later through excessive selling costs.

EVERY purchaser of a motor car has the right to know how much of the money he pays is for the car itself and how much is taken up by dealer charges. If these charges are too high, one of two things must happen. Either the price of the car must be raised or the quality lowered. There is no other way. The money must come from somewhere.

In the case of the Ford, the low charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories mean a saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser in addition to the still greater savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

The profit margin on the Ford car has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS TO DISCUSS BETTER FILMS IN NEW YORK

New England Delegates at Opening Session Tomorrow

THE Catholic Daughters of America meeting in New York city tomorrow and Thursday are to take up the question of film betterment. Like the General Federation of Women's Clubs they have formed a national committee devoted to advice and co-operation with the Motion Picture Producers' Association of America and at the two-day session the progress of the work will be reported on.

The Supreme Board, composed of Catholic women leaders from various sections of the country, will meet at national headquarters. Supreme Regent Mary C. Duffy of Newark, N. J., will preside.

New England will send three representatives. They are National Director Mrs. Katherine T. Salmon of Cambridge, National Director Miss Mary McKeough of Rutland, Vt., and National Treasurer Mrs. Elizabeth L. Ahern of New Haven, Ct.

The Catholic Daughters of America is the largest Catholic women's organization in the world, having 200,000 members and 2000 courts in all parts of the United States, Canada, Cuba, Porto Rico and the Panama Canal Zone. The order also sponsors several hundred junior circles, with 15,000 Catholic girl members from 12 to 17 years old.

In addition to the question of the movies, there will be discussed at the sessions the extension of Juniors' circles and a national chain of summer camps for girls, under the direction of Miss Mazie V. Scanlon of Atlantic City, N. J.; enlargement of the already widespread scope and units of the National Converts' League of the order for converts and non-Catholics, under the leadership of Miss Florence M. Winter of Washington, D. C., and completion of details of the semi-annual radio broadcasting programs by the national organization and individual courts.

A vigorous protest will be made to the United States Senate and House of Representatives against the Capper-Robison bill, now pending in Congress, calling for the creation of a federal department of education. The bill has been condemned by the Catholic Daughters and many other organizations as "bigoted, biased and impractical."

Reports also will be made on the retreat movement and pilgrimages to Catholic shrines, study clubs and vacation school projects of the order, clubhouse centers, community building and hotels for women and girls of all denominations, under the patronage of the Catholic Daughters of America; social welfare and community service, catechetical instruction and numerous other activities.

WOMEN IN COUNCIL

"Social Day" will be observed in Roxbury Masonic Temple, Friday, at 2:30 p. m. Members are urged to bring guests for the program, in which Miss Betty Cain, reader, and Miss Mary F. Keith, violinist, will participate. Following the program tea will be served by Mrs. James Tucker Cutler and Miss Edith W. Emerson.

MASS. DIETETIC ASSOCIATION

The February meeting of the association will take place at the Women's Republican Club, 46 Beacon st., tonight at 8. Dr. Walter H. Eddy, professor of physiological chemistry, Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York city, will speak on "The Most Recent developments in Vitamin Investigation." The meeting will be preceded by a dinner, at which Dr. Eddy and other scientists will be guests.

CLUB MEETINGS

Many clubs are holding their bridge parties and meetings at the Salada Tea building, Stuart and Berkeley sts. The Boston Tea Party Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, is holding a bridge today with Miss E. F. Dalby in charge.

Tomorrow 60 members of the Old Boston Chapter, D. A. R., will play bridge in the Salada Tea Club rooms and listen to a program arranged by Mrs. W. W. Fiske. On Thursday, Guy A. Ham Chapter, O. E. S., will hold a bridge party under the supervision of Mrs. J. H. Holt, after an inspection of the plant. For Friday, 30 women of Harry K. Wilson Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., will attend a Valentine whist party, with Mrs. Jennie Schroefel of Somerville in charge.

SOCIAL WELFARE CONFERENCE

Mrs. Albert Bradley Carter, chairman of the department of social welfare for the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, has arranged the following program for her conference on Thursday at the Burroughs Foundation, 10 Somerset st.

It is to be a luncheon-meeting devoted to the ideal "with liberty and justice for all," which Mrs. Carter maintains can never be until "everyone is equipped mentally, physically and spiritually to take his place in the community as a citizen able to care for himself and his family in such a way that none of them will become a public charge."

The prayer will be given by Rev. George P. O'Connor. Gov. Allen will open the program with an outline of his welfare program for 1930. Then will come the report of the Children's Commission by Theodore A. Lothrop, chairman of the commission; the report of the Recess Committee on Increasing School Requirements by Sen. J. Bradford Davis, chairman; philanthropy as seen by the department of public welfare, Dr. Richard K. Conant, commissioner of public welfare; mental hygiene as seen by the department of mental diseases, Dr. George Kline, commissioner; correctional institutions as seen by the department of correction, Dr. A. Warren Stearns, commissioner; protective measures as seen by the Commission on Probation, Herbert C. Parsons, commissioner, and how the state finances the care of its dependents, Charles F. Howard.

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB OF MASSACHUSETTS

Committee advisors throughout the country today are to be the guests of Mrs. H. Addington Bruce, chairman of the Middlesex Division of the club, at a luncheon at the clubhouse. Gov. and Mrs. Allen have been invited, as have Dr. William E. Barton, Lincoln biographer; Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs, president of the club; Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, honorary president; Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, Miss Alice R. Cole, Mrs. Butler Ames and Mrs. Herbert W. Mason. Dr. Barton is to speak after the luncheon on "Abraham Lincoln and the American Ideal." Members and friends may hear the lecture in the Assembly Hall.

BOSTON SQUARE AND COMPASS CLUB

This week's program begins tomorrow evening when the semi-monthly whist will be held in the upper foyer of the Beacon st. club house with Mrs. William White as hostess. On Thursday, the dancing class takes place in the auditorium, President William Terhune announces.

For next Sunday a program by the Bostonian Light Opera Company takes place.

ZONTA CLUB

The February luncheon meeting takes place at the University Club Thursday at 12:30; while the dinner meeting is scheduled for the 27th at the same place. This is to be a joint meeting with the Cambridge and the Malden Zontians, Mary E. Pierce, corresponding secretary, announces. Mrs. Minnie Stratton Watson, first vice president, will tell of her party at the luncheon meeting.

The national convention is to take place next June in Seattle, Wash. Amy Robinson, who has charge of the Boston transportation end, is making reservations for club members.

ADMITS AIDING POLITICAL FOE OF EX-CHIEF

Brockton, Feb. 11—Hearings through which ex-Police Chief John Armstrong of Plymouth hopes to be reinstated went into their ninth day today, with the end not yet in sight.

Selectman George J. Anderson, storm center of the Plymouth police controversy, was on the stand for the second day and admitted that he had furthered the candidacy of a selectman whose vote, after he was elected, resulted in changing the decision of the board and ousting Chief Armstrong.

Under cross-examination Selectman Anderson admitted that he had caused to be published in a Plymouth newspaper the following card of thanks:

"I wish to thank my friends for their confidence in the vote given my candidate, Roger S. Kellen."

Kellen was elected at a special meeting in September. Before his election the vote of the committee was three to wto against dismissing Chief Armstrong, but after the election the vote was three to two in favor of dismissal.

It was brought out at today's hearing that Chairman Frank L. Eastwood of the board of selectmen warned his members not to talk with policemen about matters affecting the police department.

Anderson admitted he had defied the chairman and had said he intended to continue discussing police subjects with the officers.

WON'T ARREST RUM BUYERS

dence to hold the Freites brothers for the Grand Jury, McGrath had announced that he would ask for warrants for the agents and the line of his questioning was with that final aim in view. The Freites brothers were both held for the Grand Jury.

Tobin testified that on Jan. 10 he visited the Webster pl. premises with Smeaton and was with Smeaton when he bought a pint of liquor and paid Thomas Freites $1 for it. On Feb. 3, he said, he went back with another man and bought a half pint of moonshine and on Feb. 5 another half pint for 50 cents, he said. He admitted he had no permit to purchase liquor.

IS THAT A CRIME

McGrath said to Commissioner Jenney: "Now, your honor, I would like to ask at this time that you issue a warrant for Agent Tobin because on his own admission he has purchased liquor."

"Do you claim that that is a crime?" the commissioner asked.

"I don't know," McGrath answered. "The grand jury said that it is."

"If you claim that it is will you give me a brief of it?"

McGrath: "The grand jury has ruled that a man has violated the law by purchasing liquor and the United States attorney has said that he intends to prosecute the matter. If the United States attorney seeks a case to test, let him test this one against prohibition agents and not one against some unfortunate who has a wife and family."

Smeaton then took the stand and testified to the purchase of two drinks and a pint.

McGrath then asked that a warrant issue for Smeaton's arrest and Stone requested that the application be made in writing with the approval of the U. S. attorney.

Commissioner Jenney volunteered to supply a blank warrant and McGrath declared it up to the commissioner to decide whether a crime had been committed.

Stone took the stand that from time immemorial officers of the law had employed similar tactics. They differ from a violation because they go to expose an offense, he said. "We must use methods that defeat criminals at their own game."

Commissioner Jenney then said he would issue no warrant for purchasing liquor against anybody.

Robbers Stir Ire of Victim and He Does Things

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 11 (AP)—Peter Ross of Ithaca, N. Y., is not a person to be imposed upon.

Two road agents waylaid him in his automobile and demanded his money at the point of a pistol. He gave them $3.

Apparently disappointed at the size of their takings and deiring to enrich themselves further at Ross' expense, the highwaymen demanded his automobile.

Ross got so mad he forgot all about the robbers' pistol and got out his penknife.

When he finished cutting he still had his automobile and a prisoner badly in need of a surgeon handy with a needle.

Hoover's Fishing for Food Fish Now

Long Key, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—President Hoover and his party went fishing today to fill the ice box of the houseboat Saunterer. The anglers set sail early for food fish, although the President was considering a late afternoon trip into the haunts of sail fish in an attempt to duplicate his prize catch of yesterday.

The Saunterer weighed anchor today and sailed in the direction of Alligator lake, 16 miles north of Long Key, with all the party aboard. The lake, local anglers said, abounds in king and bone fish, red snapper and mackerel. Mrs. Hoover took a light rod and like the chief executive, whipped the waters of the creek.

BACKS OUSTING OF HERBERT'S ACCUSER

Washington, Feb. 11 (INS)—Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, has approved the dismissal for "insubordination" of Frank S. Flynn, prohibition bureau clerk, who made charges against Col. John F. J. Herbert, prohibition administrator for the Montana-Idaho district, to Senators Borah and Wheeler.

The Flynn charges were the subject of debate in the Senate and the direct result came when Senator Wheeler asked for a full investigation of the prohibition bureau.

Col. Herbert, whose home is in Worcester, Mass., came to Washington and was cleared by the Treasury Department.

Flynn, it is alleged, went to Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Wheeler of Montana, in whose districts Herbert is now chief enforcement officer, and charged that Herbert, while administrator for Maryland and the District of Columbia, was under investigation and that the case was "whitewashed" by the bureau.

Flynn's dismissal will now be reviewed by the Civil Service Commission, Lowman said, and if nothing irregular in his discharge is found it will be effective at once.

The Yankee Division Club of Washington, composed of veterans of the 26th Division, has indorsed Col. Herbert. He commanded the 102nd Field Artillery of that division in the A. E. F.

Hyde Park Legion Vets Back Herbert

The American Legion, through the Cecil W. Fogg Post of Hyde Park, many members of which served with Col. John F. J. Herbert overseas in the World War, has taken official cognizance of the recent attack made upon the popular Yankee Division officer by Senators Borah and Wheeler, and unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon both senators to retract publicly their charges against the colonel.

Flier Renews Hunt for Lost Canoeists

Hyannis, Feb. 11—After many hours of searching in the waters off Hyannisport, coast guardsmen returned today without having found a floating object sighted from the air by Russell N. Boardman, who thought it the body of one of the missing canoeists, Robertson Alying and Oscar Ryerson.

Capt. Clarence Hodge of the National Guard air force resumed the search from the air today. Both Alying and Ryerson were aviators and a pocketbook containing the former's pilot's license was washed ashore on the beach near where their canoe was found half filled with water.

Doctor, Infected by Parrot Fever, Dies

Baltimore, Feb. 11 (INS)—Dr. William R. Stokes, director of the bureau of bacteriology of the city health department, died early today from psittacosis, or parrot fever. He had been ill for a week, and serum, made from the blood cultures of victims who had recovered from the tropical fever, were administered to him in an effort to save his life.

Bates New Bay State Head

Washington, Feb. 11 (INS)—Sanford Bates, director of the federal prisons, today was elected head of the Massachusetts Society, succeeding George R. Farnum.

A PARTNER'S OBLIGATIONS

EACH partner owes to his associate the assurance that business can be continued indefinitely, unhampered by lack of working capital or credit. The death of either is a contingency that would bring up this question. At the same time, he owes it to his dependents that, in case of his death, their interest in the business can be liquidated, as required by law, without bother or loss.

Unless the business has a large fund of ready money at that time, these dual obligations conflict. May we tell you how Business Life Insurance can be used in such cases for the benefit of all concerned? Send for our booklet, "Business Life Insurance for Executives," addressing—

PRAISES BOSTON BANK

If any one requires a thoroughly tangible symbol of the up-to-date vision and initiative of New England business let him go down to Buenos Aires and contemplate a structure there which is without doubt the finest commercial building on the whole continent of South America. It is the branch of a well known Boston bank and it is most impressively to the credit of the living energy of New England's time-honored overseas business and that of our whole nation.

We see New England setting the example—as she has done in so many business affairs—by definitely organizing a systematic regional effort of this kind. Elsewhere there have been approaches to this, in the regional councils of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the district work of the federal reserve system, the various state development boards, shippers' advisory boards and manufacturing groups. But this New England effort has been so successful that I think the other sections of the country would do well to study and emulate at least some phase of it.

Reprinted from The Boston Herald February 3, 1930

"It is the branch of a well-known Boston bank"

DR. JULIUS KLEIN, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, in his radio address of February 2, paid this interesting tribute to our Buenos Aires Branch:

"If any one requires a thoroughly tangible symbol of the up-to-date vision and initiative of New England business, let him go down to Buenos Aires and contemplate a structure there which is without doubt the finest commercial building on the whole continent of South America. It is the branch of a well-known Boston bank and it is most impressively to the credit of the living energy of New England's time-honored overseas business and that of our whole nation."

Established in 1917, the "Banco de Boston," as it is known in the Argentine, has grown to be the largest North American branch bank south of the Equator. Through our Foreign Department in Boston its services are available to New England business interests. Its knowledge of South American business methods and markets is invaluable to firms dealing in that territory.

A booklet describing the activities of our Foreign Department and our Buenos Aires Branch will be mailed on request.

Winston Corrects Wrong Impression

Editor Boston American:

Please correct the wrong impression which the last paragraph of your report (issue of Feb. 6), of my remarks at the meeting of the Boston Schoolmen's Economic Association might make.

In the first sentence you said that I charged a definite propaganda. In the next sentence you mentioned a charge against several organizations including the Chamber of Commerce. The two sentences should have been separated, because they refer to two separate topics in my talk. The first refers to a paragraph in a local paper.

The second sentence is evidently the result of "boiling down." It relates to a bill now before the Legislature. My mention of the organizations so named was not as a list of those who control the Legislature or are enemies of education, but as interests that have natural desire to keep the tax-rate down. Of course their opinions have weight with the Legislature. But the only opposition we have ever found before the Legislature came from one real estate man, some years ago.

I ask that you publish this in fairness to the Chamber of Commerce and the other organizations not named, so as to offset any unfortunate inference that might be drawn from the paragraph as published, which did not quote my words and did not represent my meaning.

Wine and Beer Tax for Old Age Pensions

Editor Boston American:

I have often wondered since prohibition has become a law whether the citizens of the United States have realized the money that was collected and spent to enforce the 18th amendment. If the citizens could realize the millions of dollars that have gone to waste and could be used for better purposes!

We have a very serious problem now engaging the public attention: what shall be done for the elderly people in the way of protection when they no longer are able to earn a living? We find exhaustive studies are being made of the question with a view to affording relief. It is a problem which should be met with broadest possible fairness.

Men and women everywhere should urge their Congressmen and Senators at Washington to vote against any measure for the appropriation of money to enforce prohibition. If the United State government has money to spend let it be spent for a humane purpose.

It is about time for Congress to act without being dictated to by the Anti-Saloon League. It seems that they are more powerful than the government and nothing can be done in Washington unless they say the word.

I believe that the 18th amendment should be repealed by the vote of the people. I am also in favor of light wines and beers. If each state were given a chance to vote upon the question asking for the repeal of the 18th amendment and voted in favor of light wines and beers this would mean a great deal.

If Congress does not see fit to allow money for old age pensions then let Congress allow each state [illegible] light wines and beers [illegible] tax on every glass of wine [illegible] and let the revenue go [illegible] age pensions.

[illegible] people [illegible] the problem and urge upon Congress to advocate light wines and beers for the purpose of aiding old age pensions.

Says Candidates Should Pay Bills

Editor Boston American:

I think your recent editorial as to campaign expenses is entirely misleading. Why should not a candidate's bills be paid? Were they not contracted for? Was it not for his aid that the work was done, or whatever the expense might be that was incurred? Will you say that a candidate need not pay you for your advertising? Are you perfectly satisfied to cancel the debt and say that it is not his debt? I doubt it very much.

These men order work done. If he does not order it personally one of his managers or members of the committee selected by him orders it. The work is rushed through at break neck speed in order to get his material before the public to AID HIM (not the neighbors), and when it is all over, they calmly sit by and say, and justly so according to you, that they do not owe the money. This is all wrong and it is very bad policy for your paper to advocate such a thing. A man may be honest enough and intend to pay his bills when they are contracted but surely because he is out of funds does not mean that they are not just debts. Your letter is along the same line as a lawyer who said the other day that campaign bills are not expected to be paid.

I have had some experience in the last campaign with candidates ordering their praises written up and now that the people have not fallen for them they sit idly by and say they have no money.

Says Banned Film Is Not Immoral

Editor Boston American:

The banning bug is working again. This time it is in Portsmouth, N. H., over a picture which they have turned down and that after notables had their say about it and now propose to taboo it.

Strange Boston was not affected when this same picture was exhibited here for two weeks and nothing was said about it.

So you see Boston is not to be trusted as a conclusive authority on pictures. I saw this picture myself when in Boston but there was nothing very far from righteousness that I noticed. Probably I was out of practice in the matter. Anyway, don't you see this as publicity. What Portsmouth rejects some other neighboring city will want to see.

HENRY E. TRUDEAU

Brief Sketch of Tercentenary Needed

Editor Boston American:

Can you not induce some one to write in a short compass the outstanding events in the 300 years we are about to commemorate in Boston?

Former President Coolidge was asked to write a History of the United States in 500 words for an inscription on Mt. Rushmore in South Dakota. He did it.

Why not, with serious competition from all parts of this country, give them the striking events of the history of the Tercentenary, so to speak. They will not read anything elaborate.

MARY GARDEN TRIUMPHS IN "THAIS"

By MOSES SMITH

"Thais" began the second week of the Chicago Civic Opera Company at the Boston Opera House. With it the French invasion may be said to have begun, for half of [illegible] that an [illegible] Mass[illegible] whose work was [illegible] about [illegible]

Based on Anatole France's [illegible] the opera "Thais" caused considerable [illegible] story was [illegible] immoral [illegible] change and although [illegible] now one to [illegible] French [illegible] has [illegible] offensive [illegible] at the opera house [illegible] Massenet's score [illegible] France [illegible] call for [illegible] than [illegible]

[illegible] Mary Garden [illegible] the other. It was Miss Garden again last night who created the role of the courtesan who became a saint while her [illegible] In [illegible] performance [illegible] which [illegible] the bombas[illegible] tic [illegible] that many people [illegible] her acting and singing steadily improved until in the last scene [illegible] with Athanael [illegible] Mary Garden [illegible] the Superwoman.

SCORES TRIUMPH

Her voice was [illegible] She delivered her part in exquisite tone without exaggeration. One forgot that one was listening to an opera and only woke up with the curtain [illegible] at the end of the scene. Her projection of character, furthermore, was immense. Here was the religiosity, the [illegible] of conversion, that one expected from a redeemed Thais.

With the chief honors goes [illegible] Maratoux for his superb portrayal of the monk Athanael. The fact that he was singing in better voice than we can recall from any previous appearance faded into insignificance beside the [illegible] realization in flesh and spirit of the [illegible] ascetic. On rare occasions during his performance one noted such things as the skill of his makeup, the ingeniousness of his gesture. But for the most part the source of his power was not evident because one was absorbed, here indeed was an art that concealed itself.

Jose Mojica appeared for the first time this season as Nicias. The news that he had been accorded [illegible] has been at [illegible] possible [illegible] he was accorded [illegible] stage [illegible] brilliant performance with this company [illegible] voice [illegible] fuller than on previous occasions. In appearance and manner he was the perfect [illegible]

WELL PRESENTED

Roberto Moranzoni conducted the score with vigor and insight. He did not dawdle by the way [illegible] examining landscapes with rapturous mien or wax sentimentally over pink sunsets. He subdued as much as was possible the Massenet who was inclined to [illegible] musically in the language of old ladies at the tea-table. Mr. Moranzoni would have the drama forthright. And we liked the performance the better for this.

Mr. Moor, the stage manager, was of like opinion, apparently, for he grouped and managed his lesser characters with a view to suggesting atmosphere and then letting the story and music tell their own tale. The opera was rather luxuriantly mounted [illegible] scenic [illegible] and costumes. And the ballet in the second act was [illegible] but beautiful.

The [illegible] among the most enthusiastic [illegible] its curtain calls were more than [illegible] of the number of the enthusiasts [illegible] press agent [illegible] attempted to add them up you became confused.

You Can Wear Printed Frocks For All Engagements This Season

ALL your engagements may be in print this season. That is, you may wear a print frock on [illegible] and every occasion.

[illegible] will go smartly to luncheon [illegible] colored print crepe. Bridge tea [illegible] opportunity [illegible] light colors with an accent of [illegible] shade. Dining and dancing call for [illegible] blossoms scattered over a softly fluttering [illegible] frock of chiffon.

One very good reason for the [illegible] the great variety of patterns [illegible] they are to be found. And [illegible] printed mode.

The [illegible] new [illegible] and white [illegible] bunch of [illegible] white flowers [illegible] of waxy green leaves.

Such a frock [illegible] now under a [illegible] is an excellent investment as an extra dress [illegible] through the spring and summer.

Prints have new ways this season. Not only is the pattern important but the weave of the fabric may have much to do with the effectiveness of the print. M[illegible] printed with patterns against a background of another color is a new item. Shantung, poplin and other similar weaves adopt designs that harmonize with the fabric itself. Jacquard weaves have new importance in the mode.

THE [illegible] strand of pearls and similarly simple jewelry is by all the rules of fashion the best for spring. For clothes that feature prettiness with elaborateness of bows, lace and whatnot would surely lose quality having fussy trinkets worn with them.

The jewelry that is acceptable includes necklaces of [illegible] and [illegible] glass and [illegible] colors are considered especially [illegible] blues, dark greens, beige, rust and brown.

Pearls for day wear are very simple and for evening are often combined with rhinestones and crystal. Narrow rhinestone and leather bracelets for opposite occasions are good fashions.

WHETHER you are an active sportswoman or a confirmed and enthusiastic spectator you will appreciate the smartness and appropriateness of the leather hatband. It is formed of narrow strands of brown leather that terminate in a knot at one side of the small felt brim.

From the knot fall ends tipped with wooden ornaments in colorful and novel motifs. It is clever complement to the sport outfit. Leather braided to form necklaces, belts, and bracelets, enters the lists of costume jewelry and gracefully accompanies smart tweeds and heavy cottons of the sports mode.

Mayor Walker Finds Real Tip on 'Courtesy'

Ft. Meyers, Fla., Feb. 11 (AP)—Mayor [illegible] J. Walker has some valuable advice for Police Commissioner Grover Whalen regarding New York's traffic problems.

The mayor left his car in front of the postoffice in a zone where parking is prohibited.

He found a ticket on the steering wheel when he returned, a courtesy card informing him that he had parked in the wrong place, but that as his license tag showed him to be a tourist it would be all right if he didn't do it too often.

"Young fellow," the mayor said in approaching a policeman, "this is a good idea and when I get back to New York I'm going to see if I can't get our police to adopt such a system and give touring visitors a thrill. I'm mayor up there and I'm much obliged to you for the hunch."

BROOKLINE COUPLE WED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. William Lanzee Henry of the Hotel Kenmore observed the 50th anniversary of their wedding at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Richard Dexter Walker of Williston rd., Brookline. Members of the family and a few close friends were present.

In the gathering was Mrs. Henry's sister, Mrs. Chester D. Clapp, Cleveland, who has been visiting the couple at the Hotel Kenmore.

The couple were married by the Rev. Charles Follen Lee, at that time pastor of the First Universalist Church, February 10, 1880. Both were born in Charlestown and lived there many years. For the past few years, they have resided in Brookline, with a summer home at Bass River, Cape Cod.

They have three children, Samuel Eliot Henry of Chicago, Andrew Kidder Henry of Cambridge, and Mrs. Dorothy Henry Walker of Brookline. Mr. and Mrs. Henry also have three grandchildren. Both are in fine health.

For many years Henry was engaged in the wholesale provision and rendering business with Furbush & Co., in Charlestown, of which he was long proprietor. He is a trustee of the Warren Institution for Savings and has been a member of the Howard Lodge of Odd Fellows since 1887. He is one of the oldest living members of the Boston Athletic Association. Before her marriage Mrs. Henry was Miss Florence Gertrude Furbush.

Boston Federation of Churches Meets

The sixth annual good-will dinner of the Greater Boston Federation of Churches, held at the Twentieth Century Club, was presided over by Mrs. Colin MacDonald, who is chairman of the women's Democratic state committee.

Prominent among the speakers were Prof. Alain Locke of Howard University, and Dr. C. Telford Erickson, director of the Albanian School of Agriculture. Four-minute speeches were made by Constantine F. Ciampa, Capt. Michael H. Ouspensky, Otto Kubler and Jo[illegible] Kelley. There was also entertainment.

"What is Girl's Greatest Beauty?"

Famous Screen Stars say "Lovely Skin"

"No girl is alluringly beautiful unless she has the very softest, smoothest skin," say 45 Hollywood directors—and the fascinating screen stars agree.

Moreover, Hollywood has found, no girl ever rises to stardom unless her skin shows flawless in a close-up.

These are the reasons why 9 out of 10 Hollywood stars care for their skin with Lux Toilet Soap. It keeps the skin so velvety-smooth!

ALICE DAY

Vivacious Alice Day, whose skin shows so lovely in the innumerable close-ups of the talkies, says: "I find that Lux Toilet Soap is wonderful for my skin—it keeps it so softly smooth."

MARCELINE DAY

And Marceline Day, her charming sister, says: "I'm frank in saying that this delicately fragrant white soap leaves my skin as satin-smooth as the finest French toilet soaps do!"

Sally Blane, too, delightful little Radio Pictures' player, says: "Beautiful smooth skin that isn't afraid of the camera's close-ups is very important to a star, and Lux Toilet Soap is certainly a wonderful soap for the skin!"

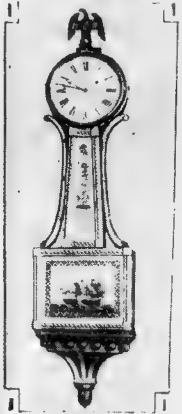
A [illegible] banjo [illegible] New England [illegible]



shown today. This relic is the property of Samuel Shaw of 1232 Beacon st., Brookline, and is a family heirloom. It is an early Willard, in gold leaf, surmounted by the American eagle in brass, and with Old Ironsides in full sail painted on the glass.

The clock was originally owned by William Bartlett of Newburyport, one of the incorporators of the old Newburyport Turnpike, and reputed to have been one of the richest men in the United States in the late 1700's. He owned a fleet of ships, was a great mill owner and a philanthropist. He donated $250,000 to Andover Theological Seminary and was [illegible] in many enterprises [illegible] Samuel Shaw's great grandfather [illegible] two were first [illegible] Bartlett, first signer of the Declaration of Independence, first president of New Hampshire and first governor of that state.

Further discussion of banjo clocks will be given by an expert in tomorrow's American.

The grandfather clock shown in yesterday's paper is strictly speaking not a grandfather clock at all. In its original form it antedated grandfather or hall clocks by many decades, but it took its present appearance as a result of rebuilding and modernizing in the course of successive generations. Early clocks in the Colonies came, of course, from abroad, chiefly from England.

Clocks in early Colonial homes represented purchase costs of from 6 shillings to 20 pounds sterling. The earliest mentioned Colonial portable or table clock dates from 1638, though they came into use in Europe in the beginning of the 16th Century.

The earliest clocks had but one hand and had no pendulum, but were actuated by a balance control. The short bob pendulum came in about 1650, and was applied to wall or hanging clocks. Slits were left in the sides of the clock to permit the pendulum to swing out on both sides. The earliest tall clock, which came with the introduction of the long pendulum, was made in the last quarter of the 17 Century. Many old clocks were reconstructed by local clockmakers to use the long pendulum so as to obtain better time-keeping qualities.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American will publish from day to day interesting specimens of authentic antiques. Readers possessing genuine antiques, particularly articles of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. In case no photograph is available, the American will send one of its staff cameramen to photograph your antique if you live in Greater Boston. Material should be addressed to "Antique Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston."

Factors of Personal Service in Stock Fire Insurance

The Agent:

Stock Fire Insurance companies have personal representatives in almost every city, town and hamlet in this country.

In no other business does the agent mean so much—in no other field is the relation of the agent with his principal more intimate.

These thousands of local agents, entrusted with great authority—qualified and equipped to render intelligent insurance service—make available to every American community the many helpful activities of the Stock Fire Insurance business.

The Underwriter:

On the judgment and experience of the underwriter, contracts for insurance protection are accepted or rejected. The public and the insurance companies are jointly interested in preventing unwarranted or illegitimate loss payments. By considering individual responsibility, and using the vast amount of reliable information by which risks are judged, the underwriter serves the public by avoiding improper losses.

The Inspector:

Here is "the watchman in the tower". He is alert—intent upon discovering hazards which threaten the destruction of life and property and add to the cost of insurance. From his findings you may obtain sound advice, based upon knowledge of construction, fire prevention, fire fighting methods, hazards of occupancy and processes, and other conditions which go to make property safe or unsafe.

The Adjuster:

This man follows disaster. Owing to the disturbed condition of the policy-holder at the moment, his task is difficult. But his purpose is to settle each legitimate claim in keeping with the rights of the interested parties. Less than one percent of his adjustments—with nearly a million reports of losses each year—are followed by litigation; a fine tribute to his fairness and ability.

LIFE TERM FOR WOMAN UNFAIR, SAY JURORS

New York, Feb. 11 (INS) — Ten of the 12 jurors whose verdict sentenced Ruth St. Claire to prison for the rest of her natural life under the Baumes law as a fourth offender, have declared that such punishment was unmerited.

At the same time, word came from Albany that the Legislature, shocked by the severity of Mrs. St. Claire's sentence, is preparing to modify the Baumes law in the interests of justice.

Assemblyman Cuvillier introduced a bill to give judges discretion in such cases and requesting [illegible] Roosevelt to commute the woman's sentence.

The jury which sent Mrs. St. Claire to prison for the rest of her life [illegible] was given no other [illegible] under the Baumes law. AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*

By refraining from over-indulgence, if you would maintain the modern figure of fashion

Women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—men who would keep that trim, proper figure eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain the lithe, youthful, modern figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

*Be Moderate!... Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

How a Girl Helped Her Affianced in His Business

By HELEN KLUMPH

From Marion Davies' forthcoming all-talking picture by Wanda Tuchock and Edwin Justus Mayer based on the play "Dulcy," by Marc Connelly and George Kaufman

CHAPTER 8

"MAYBE we would all feel better if we had a cocktail," Gordon suggested to Dulcy, hoping somehow to relieve the tension of the situation, and praying that he could keep her from insisting on a bridge game. Why couldn't she see that people didn't always want to do what she wanted, why couldn't she understand that Forbes didn't want his daughter left out there in the garden with that sentimental fool of a Vincent.

Dulcy started off to get the bridge table, a little subdued by the strange departure of Mr. Forbes. But she forgot him in her delight at seeing two of her guests hitting it off well together. Mrs. Forbes and Schuyler Van Dyke were lingering on the porch engrossed in each other.

"Two's company and three's a crowd." She laughed gaily as she hurried away from them.

This rare opportunity to get away from the stolid dignity of her husband and bask in the attentions of a man of the world so carried Mrs. Forbes away that she didn't see the menacing figure of Forbes coming across the lawn.

[illegible] interesting than [illegible] Van Dyke [illegible] You have depths [illegible] to fathom [illegible]

It was [illegible] had had an opportunity [illegible] with any man. One would [illegible] of flirting with Grant's Tomb as with C. Roger Forbes, and their courtship had been only a little less stupid than their marriage had been. She warmed to Van Dyke's advances, and giggled nervously as a schoolgirl.

"Is that you Eleanor?" There was a noticeable chill in Forbes' voice as he advanced toward them.

"I shall see you later, I hope," Van Dyke murmured hastily, but not quite hastily enough.

"And you, too," he quickly added, turning to Forbes before he strolled into the house.

"[illegible], I hope," Forbes muttered.

"Well, Eleanor?"

He [illegible] her a chance to explain [illegible] in the manner of an [illegible] with knife at ready [illegible] a prisoner if he [illegible] to say for himself.

"I [illegible] this place is going to drive me crazy. I didn't want to [illegible] me anyway. I wanted to stay home and rest. And instead of that I've got to get up at some ungodly hour in the morning and ride a horse. If there is one thing I hate more than anything else it's riding

Murder Charged in Suicide Attempt

New Britain, Ct., Feb. 11 (INS).—While her eight-year-old son was being buried this afternoon, Mrs. Eugene Doherty was at the New Britain Hospital under police guard charged with his murder. The baby died as result of gas poisoning when Mrs. Doherty, she confessed to police, attempted suicide by opening the gas jets of the kitchen stove.

She is under arrest on a first degree murder charge. Police said she was expected to be fully recovered within two days from the effects of the gas.

GAS METER BILL GOES TO SENATE

Having been put through all its stages in the House, the Senate today received the Fox bill restricting charges for use of meters by gas and electric light companies.

Under this bill no charge for the use of a meter would be allowed during any portion of 12 consecutive months if the consumer during that time uses electricity to the value of $7. A fine of $100 is provided for violations.

The bill makes null and void any schedule of rates which includes any such charge which has already been approved by the public utilities commission.

The bill reported in the House adversely by the committee on power and light was substituted for the committee report after a hard fight led by Representative Lincoln H. Fox, the petitioner.

CHURCH-STATE RELATIONSHIPS

The only relationship between church and state that is desirable in this country is a relationship whereby the church's influence upon the government is through its moral influence upon the individual citizens, the Rev. Michael J. Ahern, S. J., declared at the City Club Forum.

There are four relationships which the church may have with the state, the Rev. Fr. Ahern said. Under the first, he said, the church exercises a moral influence, and under the second may have a more direct contact through lobbies to need to defend the church's constitutional rights. These are proper and to be expected, he said.

The third relationship which involves attempt by the church to exercise political influence was not to be desired, in the Rev. Fr. Ahern's opinion.

Despondent, Shoots Self Before Wife

Despondent at the refusal of his estranged wife to become reconciled with him, William Johnson, 25, shot himself twice today in her presence in their Adams st., Dorchester home.

Johnson was taken to City Hospital, where he was found to have two bullet wounds in the left breast with a punctured lung, and his name was placed on the danger list.

According to the police, Johnson and his wife, Margaret, have been separated and divorce proceedings are pending. There are two children.

Last night he visited her and for hours tried to prevail on her to forget their differences and live together again.

Early today, when Mrs. Johnson had reiterated her refusal many times, her husband drew a .32 calibre automatic pistol and fired two shots into his left breast.

Patrolman John Wedder of Division 6, who was passing the house on the way home, heard the shots and entered. He found Johnson bleeding from two wounds, lying on a couch, with the pistol on the kitchen floor.

Wedder notified Station 11 and an ambulance was sent to take the wounded man to the hospital.

Throat Sore?

Heed this Warning:

Any inflammation of the throat can spread very fast. Don't go to bed with "just a sore throat." It may be tonsilitis by morning! It takes five minutes or less to gargle with Bayer Aspirin. This simple precaution may save you days of suffering. It not only relieves all soreness, but reduces the infection. Two tablets crushed in four tablespoons of water; physicians say there is no more effective gargle. See proven directions for colds, headaches, neuralgic pains, etc. Get genuine Bayer Aspirin; effective, harmless.

POLICEMEN RESCUE 10 TRAPPED BY FLAMES IN LYNN BUILDING

4 CHILDREN ARE CARRIED TO SAFETY

Neighbors in Thickly Settled Tenement District Routed by Smoke

Ten persons including four children were saved from death early today when flames raced through a building at 12 Stewart st., Lynn, trapping them as they slept.

More than 50 residents of nearby buildings were forced to the street when it appeared that the fire would spread.

The building, a four story wooden structure, is located in a thickly settled residential district. The fire, starting on the ground floor, had worked its way through the roof before it was discovered.

The first floor of the building is occupied by John Pulafito, his wife, Jane, and their four children, Lillian, 12, Vito, 8, Tony, 7, and a 10-month-old infant.

Pulafito, who also conducts a store on the first floor, was awakened by smoke in his apartment in the rear. He aroused his family but when they prepared to leave, they found their way blocked by dense clouds of smoke.

Meanwhile, Miss Frances Anderson, 19, returning to her home at 8 Stewart st., saw smoke pouring from the burning building and sounded a fire alarm.

Patrolman Horace Hill, who responded with the apparatus, immediately entered the Pulafito home through a window, and passed the children out the window to volunteers. Mr. and Mrs. Pulafito were then assisted through the window.

Patrolman Arthur McDonald, who also responded with the apparatus, entered the building and went to another apartment on the first floor from which he assisted John Cross [illegible] to safety.

From the third floor of the building George Parsikian and his two cousins, Antonio and Parish Parsikian, were rescued by Sergt. William Murphy.

The cause of the fire is undetermined. It is believed to have started somewhere in the Pulafito apartment, spread to the store and then worked its way up a flight of stairs to the upper stories. The loss was estimated at $1200.

1 Hurt, 9 Driven Out by Fire in Lexington

One fireman was injured and nine persons were driven to the street early today when fire of undetermined origin broke out in the farmhouse of Owen McDevitt, Burlington and Grove sts., Lexington.

Two alarms were sounded for the blaze, which caused damage estimated at $2000, and Waltham apparatus responded, while Arlington equipment covered Lexington.

Capt. Roy A. Cook of the Lexington department suffered a severe cut on one hand, necessitating several stitches being taken by Dr. W. W. Harrington.

The blaze started in the ell of the farmhouse, and was confined to that section after a three hour battle on the part of the firemen.

Unconscious Woman and Four Children Saved in Fire

A woman was overcome by smoke and four children were carried down ladders early today at a Somerville fire that caused damage of only $150.

The blaze started from a short circuit in wiring in the cellar of the two family house in Webster [illegible], occupied on the first floor by Mr. and Mrs. John Quinn and one child and on the second by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Coleman and four children.

Mrs. Quinn was overcome when she returned to her apartment after carrying her child to safety. Capt. Horace W. Hutchins Jr. stumbled across her form in the dining room and with Hoseman John V. Quinn carried her to the street. The two, with Ladderman F. C. Harvey, resuscitated her after 20 minutes and she was taken to Somerville Hospital.

In the meantime, Laddermen Dempsey, Keefe, Carney and Fennell had carried the four Coleman children down ladders from second floor windows, the smoke from burning insulation being so thick they could not fight their way inside the house.

Woman Is Overcome in Medford Blaze

Mrs. Henry E. Scott, wife of the editor and secretary of the N. E. Historical Genealogical Society, was overcome by smoke and her husband and daughter, Elizabeth,

Rex, 'King of Fire Heroes'

Miss Elizabeth Scott of 71 Otis st., Medford, holding Rex, her pet dog, which aroused her in time to flee when fire swept her parents' home. Her mother was overcome in attempting to rescue Miss Scott.

were carried down ladders to safety when fire of undetermined origin swept their home at 71 Otis st., Medford, today.

The alarm was given by Rex, a pet Airedale, and Miss Elizabeth Scott refused to leave the house until firemen had first carried Rex to safety.

Mrs. Scott and her son George C. made their way from the house unassisted, but the wife and mother, learning that her husband and daughter were still inside, ran back and was overcome.

Elizabeth, asleep on the second floor, was aroused by the barking of Rex, who was scratching on her bedroom door. Opening the door she was greeted by a cloud of smoke, and tried to get the dog into the room. Instead, he dashed to the doors of Mrs. Scott and George and repeated his performance.

In the meantime the girl ran to a window and screamed, arousing neighbors who telephoned the fire department. By the time the apparatus arrived flames were breaking through the roof and Mr. Scott was trapped in his room on the third floor.

He was carried down a ladder by Laddermen Joseph B. Donovan, Reed T. Ordway and William L. Leonargan of Ladder 2.

Lieut. Ernest Pearson of Engine 4 then attempted to carry Elizabeth down a ladder, but she refused to stir until he had first taken Rex to the ground. After the dog was safe the girl permitted herself to be rescued.

The firemen stumbled over the unconscious form of Mrs. Scott on the front stairs and carried her to the home of a neighbor, where she was revived.

The fire started in the kitchen and worked through to the roof, causing damage estimated at $6000.

Fliers Saved by Icy Revere Marshes

Ice on the Revere marshes, covering water holes and dangerous, saved two fliers today when their plane, with its motor dead, coasted to a landing off Revere st. Winter conditions made the marshland comparatively level and their yellow biplane was undamaged.

The fliers, Al Luongo of Florence st., Winchester, and Raymond McNamara of Pelham st., Somerville, en route from Woburn to the Boston airport. Luongo at the controls took a chance on the marsh when his motor cut out, but another pilot arriving later from Woburn to lend aid flew away without risking a landing.

"Shineless Sundays" Irk Harvard Boys

Harvard students are wrath over what they term Boston's "Shineless Sunday."

Indignant because of their inability to have their shoes shined on Sunday, the students are in a state bordering on rebellion and [illegible] because of an ordinance which [illegible] professional shining of shoes after 11 a. m. on the Sabbath.

Even the Crimson has taken a stand in the matter, and the legislators were severely criticized in the editorial column of the student publication.

The Crimson editorial follows:

"It would seem that in the legislative circles of Boston, wonders [illegible] the most striking of the priceless gems which come to light from time to time is the city ordinance which forbids the shining of shoes professionally after 11 a. m. on Sundays.

"A quaint notion this, that the sanctity of the Sabbath day goes into effect precisely at 11 o'clock, no sooner and no later. SCOLLAY AND FENWAY GET "PHANTOM"

ONE of the greatest thrillers ever shown on the screen, "The Phantom of the Opera," starring Lon Chaney, with Mary Philbin and Norman Kerry in featured roles, is being shown at the Fenway and the Scollay Sq. Olympia.

The production has been fitted out with sound and dialogue, including the tense and dramatic scenes between the principals, the elaborate ballets, songs and choruses from the opera "Faust," and the glittering bal masque in the grand foyer of the Paris Opera House. With glorious music and singing, with its spoken drama, mystery and thrills, all plus many charming scenes presented in natural colors, the new "Phantom of the Opera" is splendid entertainment.

Woven into the plot of the story, which is laid in the Paris Opera House, are scenes from "Faust." These are presented in full color, giving an excellent rendition of grand opera on the talking screen. These scenes include the famous duets, trios, arias, choruses and ballets.

Lon Chaney, who plays the phantom, is supported by a very large cast. Among the principals in addition to Kerry and Miss Philbin are Snitz Edwards, Gibson Gowland, John Sainpolis, Virginia Pearson, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Edith Yorke, Anton Vaverka, Bernard Sigel, Olive Von Alcond, Edward Cecil, Alexander Bevani, John Miljan, Bruce Covington and George B. Williams.

The picture was made from the famous mystery story by Gaston Leroux. Rupert Julian directed it. The sound and dialogue version was directed by Ernest Laemmle, with C. Roy Hunter supervising the sound recording.

WHOOPEE GIRL GAYETY STAR

LA VILLA MAYE, called the original "Whoopee Girl," scored another hit yesterday at the Gayety. This personality star was given a warm welcome. Working with Holub's Gayety jazz orchestra, she offered some new songs, new dances and a new interpretation of some Oriental numbers which brought much applause. She "stopped the show" every time she appeared on the stage.

In addition there were other stars in the burlesque revue. Opal Oakley, Charles Goldie and Kitty Axton furnished fun in their own section of the show.

A scene in Arabia and a Pullman car skit were filled with humor, particularly the Pullman car scene. New situations and new gags made that particular situation one of great laughter.

Leonard Kramer, Harry K. Fields, Tony Curley and Dorothy and Betty Beal were other stars.

Sally Herself

MARILYN MILLER

"SALLY," in the movie version, is the attraction at the Uptown and Washington St. Olympia. Marilyn of stage fame is still the star of the talking, singing shadow production.

Screen Shorts

"A Lady to Love" has been selected as the final title of Vilma Banky's latest starring production for M-G-M. Victor Seastrom directed from an original by Sidney Howard. Edward G. Robinson and Robert Ames support the star.

John S. Robertson has been assigned to direct John Boles in "Moonlight Madness" for Universal. The story is an original by Houston Branch. Jeanette Loff appears opposite Boles.

Harry Gribbon has just completed the part of master of ceremonies in the all-talking Screen Snapshot, number 15, directed by Ralph B. Staub for Columbia release.

Irene Rich has been assigned one of the featured roles in "So This Is London," Fox production featuring Will Rogers.

Barbara Stanwyck has been assigned the leading female role in "Ladies of Leisure," which will be directed by Frank Capra.

ORPHEUM HIT HAS RAINBOW PATTERN

BESSIE LOVE and Charles King, who scored such a hit in "The Broadway Melody," are brought together again in "Chasing Rainbows," all-talking singing, dancing feature now being presented at Loew's Orpheum. The picture abounds in melody and mirth with dazzling stage spectacles screened in Technicolor lending a sparkling background to the swift action of the plot. King sings three of the five song hits in the show and Miss Love, in a whirlwind tap dance routine, is featured in a dancing ensemble of beauty and movement. Marie Dressler and Polly Moran are hilariously teamed in the new picture. The supporting cast includes Jack Benny, Gwen Lee, George K. Arthur, Nita Martan, Eddie Phillips and others.

Charles King

Nat "Chic" Haines returns as the Orpheum vaudeville headliner. He appears in an amusing comedy piece entitled "Hello, Mama." Haines is a smart comedian and he has surrounded himself with a good cast, including Vira Rial, Helen Gero, Louise Evans, Ted Kent and Harry White. Al Raymond and Frank Caverly, local vaudevillians, are well received.

A worth-while attraction and a distinct novelty is given by the Famous Lucky Boys, who thrill and amuse with a speedy exhibition of stunts. Other highlights of this week's stage bill are Fred Reynolds and Alice White in a musical oddity and Sheldon, Heft and Lewis, who excel in a dancing turn.

Here and There

WALDRON'S—"High Fliers," a Mutual burlesque show, featuring Mike Sacks and Frances Farr. On the screen, "Illusion," with Nancy Carroll and Buddy Rogers, and "Big News."

BOWDOIN—"Condemned," with Ronald Colman and Ann Harding, "Little Johnny Jones," and "Shivering Shakespeare," a comedy. On the stage R-K-O vaudeville.

GLOBE—"The Lost Zeppelin" and "Is Everybody Happy"; starting Thursday, "The Laughing Lady" and "Romance of the Rio Grande."

BUSY SEASON AHEAD FOR GLIDERS

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

[illegible] Charles A. Lindbergh [illegible] West [illegible] popularize [illegible] and the [illegible] all over the country.

At the New York Air Show there were many of the soaring planes on exhibit, [illegible] of the American Motorless Aviation Corp of New York and the Sailplane Co. of Lynn. The interest the ships aroused in the visiting crowds was ample pay for the efforts necessary to get them there.

Now comes news from the Detroit Aircraft Corp. that the gliders have been established as a separate company of the [illegible] in the outfit which built [illegible] monoplane [illegible] flew to Paris and [illegible] long.

[illegible] State.

According to the report received this [illegible] and gliders [illegible] flown at all times regardless of the [illegible] of the wind. It's approximately 100 feet high [illegible] the glider [illegible] glider fan [illegible].

After getting [illegible] signed up Kuehns started out to organize a gliding club, which would give primary instruction in the art of free soaring, as well as advance work to those who already had obtained their glider licenses.

At the air show in New York, we found three ships exhibited by the AMAC, or American Motorless Aviation Corp. These ships included a primary training job, an intermediate plane, and one used by the boys when they become expert. All the German gliding officials were in attendance, and were besieged with questions all day long.

Just around the corner from the AMAC display was a sailplane made by the American Sailplane Co. of Lynn, of which Jack Timmons is chief. Timmons entertained about a year ago at the Boston Airport with gliding models built out of Balsa wood, which were marvels for stability and long flight.

Since that time, he has gone ahead with the construction of a man carrying ship, and didn't say a word to anyone about it until he unloaded it out of a freight car for the New York show. We were deeply impressed with the principles involved, and didn't doubt Timmons' word at all when he said that a 20 horsepower motor could be installed in the nose, and the ship would carry a pilot and passenger with ease.

Looks like a great year for the German boys and their American backers at the gliding school at South Wellfleet, Cape Cod. What with Lindbergh barging around the air currents in one of the jobs and Mrs. Lindbergh closely following his example, it strikes us that the day when primary instruction in the art of flying will be done in one of these soaring machines is near at hand.

Some weeks ago we wrote about Ray Cate of Groton, Ct., going down to Florida to attempt to break the free fall parachute record. A postcard from him now places him in Pelham, Ga., on his way to Florida, and jumping as he goes.

Cate is out to meet up with his boss of last summer, Charlie Arnold, who is now doing the sticks in Tennessee, and when the pair of them get together they will make plans for this record-breaking attempt.

New record or not, Cate still holds the world's endurance parachute jump record, that of two hours and 45 minutes from 1500 feet, when a big pine tree caught him 75 feet in the air.

The news that Bob Ayling, manager of Hyannis Airport, was missing from his canoe and that the canoe had been found empty, left the boys at the Boston and Dennison Airports feeling weak.

Ayling has long been an important figure in commercial aviation in New England.

Although Bob's pocketbook is said to have been found floating near shore at Hyannis, the boys held on to the last hope that Bob and his companion are safe somewhere.

When Capt. Clarence Hodge of the National Guard air unit heard the news he immediately climbed into a Consolidated O-17 and flew down to Hyannis to join Russell Boardman in the search for the missing pair. Hodge flew all last summer for Ayling as chief pilot, and stated as he left the airport here that he wouldn't return until Bob had been found.

And all we can do is hope for the best.

Ralph Torpey, state inspector of aircraft, paid one of his regular visits to the Hub airport, looking things over. Torpey states that when the administration building is finished the aviation department hopes to have a man stationed at the airport all the time, in addition to the regular office on Commonwealth Pier.

Daley and Bowman to Run in B. A. A. Special Sprint

STAR FIELD IN BRIGGS DASH

ENTRIES of James Daley of Holy Cross and Chester Bowman of the Newark Athletic Club have been received for the Mayor Briggs 40-yard dash sprint event at the 41st annual B. A. A. relay carnival at the Arena Saturday night.

Daley and Bowman last appeared in Boston at the K. of C. games when [illegible]

Daley [illegible] well known to Boston track followers. He is the present Intercollegiate and National A. A. U. indoor sprint champion and was the winner of the Briggs 40 at the B. A. A. games of 1928.

Daley is running just as strong this season as ever before and the chances are that he will have his name engraved for the second time [illegible] two legs on the [illegible]

With [illegible] pitted against the best college sprinters in the country the dash event next Saturday night should furnish the best sprinting ever afforded a Boston crowd at an indoor meeting.

YALE STAR ENTERED

There will be Sidney Kieselhorst of Yale and J. H. MacDonald, also of the Yale team. Kieselhorst is the winner of the International meet between Harvard-Yale and Oxford-Cambridge at the stadium last July, while MacDonald is considered [illegible]

Capt. [illegible] be two dash men that are going to beat. [illegible] are sprinters [illegible] fore and Coach [illegible] dicts that one of them will be the 1930 winner of [illegible] dash.

B. C. Trackmen in Bid for New England Titles

Eleven Boston College [illegible] will be [illegible] with the B. A. A. schoolboy meet at the Arena next Saturday afternoon.

Ryder [illegible] any N. E. [illegible] afternoon meet are not very bright because his best students are booked to appear in relay races at the B. A. A. games that night.

Jack Carew in the 1000 and Bernie Trummer in the two-mile run are the most likely of the B. C. entries to come close to winning a New England title.

In the dash Boston College has Bill Donovan, Ernie Sacco and Tom O'Brien. O'Brien ran on the one-mile relay team at the Millrose games in place of Guarino Pasquantonio who was injured.

Joe Merrick who looked good in his first varsity showing at the Prout games will go after the hurdling crown. Another B. C. entry in the timber-topping event is Adams, a freshman.

Ernie Pearsall, a member of the two-mile relay reserves, will compete in the 600.

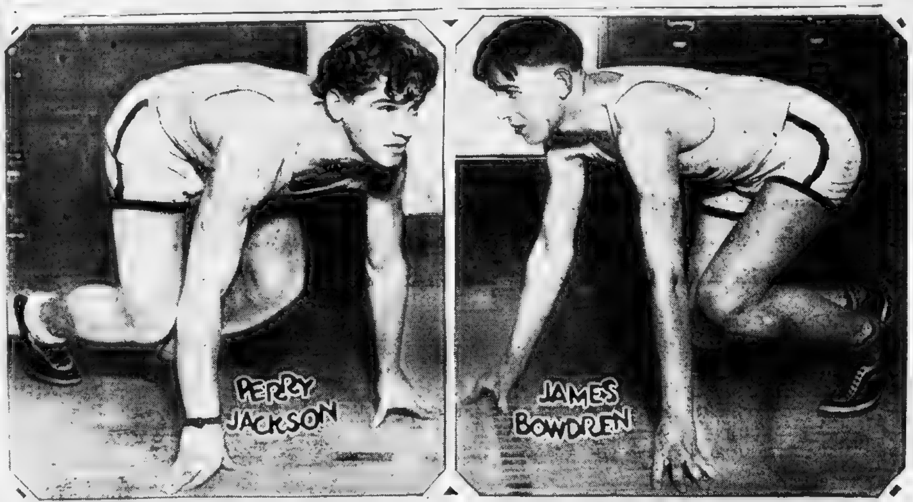
MEDFORD ACES WHO RUN IN B. A. A. MEET SATURDAY



Perry Jackson and James Bowdren are two Medford high runners who are expected to garner many points in the B. A. A. Interscholastic meet at the Arena on Saturday. Jackson is entered in the 1000-yd. run, while Bowdren, captain of the team, will run in the 600 and relay race.

Slattery New Champ of Light Heavies

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 11 (AP)—A stout heart and a pair of legs that still are full of dance and bounce, plus the theory that the [illegible] never fails, finally have landed Jimmy Slattery, the Irish [illegible] of Buffalo, on the world's light heavyweight throne.

[illegible] today on the top of the heap after three tries at [illegible] champion in the eyes of the New York State Athletic [illegible] at least, and his reign [illegible] for 60 days. At [illegible] time he must defend [illegible] against Maxey [illegible] of Ha-[illegible]

[illegible] for a round or two last night it seemed as though graceful Jimmy, perennial pretender to [illegible] would have [illegible] burdens for [illegible] time to come.

[illegible] Lou Scozza, the [illegible] nominated by the [illegible] a successor [illegible] Tommy Loughran [illegible] had to do things he [illegible] been able to accomplish before.

[illegible] with a [illegible] lead at the end of the 12th round, had [illegible] off the ropes in the [illegible] session of the 15-round battle.

ON VERGE OF K. O.

He had been hung there like a canvas dummy on a fence by the Italian youngster's final desperate bid for victory. He muscled himself off the middle strand, eyes glassy, arms dangling helpless, legs devoid of their snap and speed.

Only the fact that Scozza's finishing rally came late in the session and the over anxiety of the youngster when Slattery reeled before [illegible] the day for the popular veteran of Buffalo's famous Irish "Ward One."

When the battle was over and Slattery had survived the stormy [illegible] round as well as a brutal 14th [illegible] to come back in the last round and beat Scozza all over the ring, the decision and the plaudits of a crowd of 11,000, one of the largest in Buffalo's history, greeted the new champion.

Although one judge voted the contest a draw, with the referee and [illegible] judge agreeing on Slattery, [illegible] newspapermen at the ringside [illegible] the smiling Irishman nine [illegible] with five for Scozza and one even.

Slattery made a mark of Scozza, a game, plunging, but ineffective youngster, in the first ten rounds, stabbing his face constantly with sharp left jabs that closed the Italian's right eye, cut his left cheek and opened a gash in his forehead.

RESEMBLED FENCING DUEL

Until Scozza's despairing surge, when the youngster switched suddenly from a body attack to slashing overhand swings to the head, the milling was an uninteresting fencing duel.

Slattery, a veteran despite his 26 years, bid for light heavyweight title honors first in 1925, but was knocked out by Paul Berlenbach in 11 rounds.

Two years ago Jimmy fought Tommy Loughran for the title, but lost the decision in 15 close rounds. He is the fifth Irishman to hold the light heavyweight title and the second to win it by acclamation following the retirement of a champion.

Mike McTigue won the crown that way before losing it to Tommy Loughran following Jack Delaney's abdication two years ago. Slattery is the first new champion of 1930.

CARNERA OUT FOR FOURTH K.O.

St. Louis, Feb. 11—Primo Carnera, giant Italian boxer, will meet Buster Martin here tonight. This will be Carnera's fourth ring battle since coming to the United States.

In his first start, Carnera knocked out Big Boy Peterson in 70 seconds and followed this victory a week later by putting Elzear Rioux to sleep in 47 seconds.

Last Friday, Carnera added Cowboy Owens to his list of k. o. victims, knocking him out in three rounds.

Buster Martin is a rugged fellow, but is hardly in Carnera's class.

Shade Gave Willis a Boxing Lesson

San Francisco, Feb. 10 (AP)—Dave Shade, one of the master boxers of the middleweight ranks, gave Jack Willis of San Antonio, Tex., an all round fistic lesson to win a 10-round decision here tonight.

HOCKEY TITLE DATES SET

New York, Feb. 11—The National Hockey League announces the following tentative dates for the playoffs for the league championship and for the Stanley Cup, emblem of the world's professional championship.

The league championship playoff, consisting of the best three out of five games between the teams finishing first in the two groups are March 20, 22, 25, 27 and 29 or 30. The first two games will be played on the home ice of the international group winner.

The second place teams of the two divisions will meet in a series of two games, total goals to count, on March 20 and 22 or 23. The third place teams will meet in a similar series on the same dates.

The alternate dates for these two series were set because of the probability that Montreal's two teams, the Maroons and Les Canadiens will finish in the money. They both use the Montreal Forum for their home games and provision had to be made for possible conflicts in dates.

The winners of the second and third place playoffs are scheduled to meet in a series of the best two out of three games on March 25, 27 and 29 or 30 for right to enter the finals for the Stanley cup against the winner of the first place series.

The final playoff to decide the world's championship is scheduled for April 1, 3, and 5 or 6.

Harvard Six Shifted as Giddens Returns

BOBBIE GIDDENS, Harvard's Canadian skating flash, worked with the varsity team today as Coach Joe Stubbs drove the Cantab six in their final practice before meeting University Club tomorrow.

Today was Giddens' first day of eligible hockey in nearly a year. He went to the forward line and played right wing where he will probably be seen tomorrow when Harvard and University Club play their third game this season.

An all around shake up is promised in the Harvard lineup, as Giddens returns to his spot in the forward line. This means that Junie Stubbs, the hardest shooting puckster on the Crimson sextet, must join the spares for a while.

The new Harvard forward line has Johnny Garrison at center, Capt. Putnam on left wing and Giddens on right. Batchelder and Cunningham are the leading candidates for the defense and Elus has the edge on Draper in the strings.

This is the way the team will line up tomorrow night against the Clubmen and it is the most likely line to start the Yale series.

Meanwhile Charlie Lakin, Johnny Cross, and Frank Harding find themselves out of a job with the first string six. Lakin especially has found the going tough against regular competition and must be content with a spot on the spare forward line which has Barry Wood at center and Johnny Cross in the opposite lane.

Lakin looked a lot better as a sophomore star two years ago than he does right now, and it will be a real battle between Lakin and Stubbs for the left wing assignment.

Coach Joe Stubbs is far from satisfied with the showing of his Crimson six in their past two games with Marquette and Dartmouth. In the first tilt, Harvard was far from good condition, after laying off more than a month for exams.

The Cantabs looked somewhat improved in downing Dartmouth at Hanover, in their latest tilt, but comparative scores of Yale and Harvard give the Elis more than an edge.

With Giddens back to bolster the attack line, however, Harvard should improve steadily until they meet Yale at the Garden March 1.

ALL-STAR MAT SHOW AT ARENA

An all-star mat show will be staged Thursday night in the Arena when Bob "Bibber" McCoy, Cambridge heavyweight, battles Renato Gardini, Italian idol, in the feature finish match.

McCoy established himself as one of the most popular wrestlers in this corner of the country when he battled Gus Sonnenberg down to the finish line recently.

Gardini has been one of the world's best wrestlers for a number of years. He has held his own with such wrestlers as Ed "Strangler" Lewis and Joe Stecher and is now engaged in a pursuit race with Sonnenberg, hoping to land a match with Gus for the title.

In the semi-final match, which will be one fall to a finish, Count Zarynoff, colorful Russian heavyweight, will meet Frank Yusko, South Boston Lith.

Ed George, former University of Michigan captain who has never been defeated will attempt to keep his record clean against Carl Lemle, South Boston veteran. In the opening matches, Joe DeVito of Providence will be paired with Jack Sherry, champion of Ohio; Wladek Zbyszko, former champion of the world, with Bull Smith of Manchester, N. H.; and Axel Andreasson of Quincy with Jack Albright of this city.

St. Clement's C. C. to Hold Show Tonight

St. Clement's Catholic Club of Medford will hold an athletic night in Knights of Columbus Hall, Highland ave., Somerville, tonight, featuring wrestling, boxing, sport talks and a musical entertainment by well known local artists.

Among those listed to appear are Francis Ouimet, well known amateur golfer; Bob Quinn of the Red Sox, Bibber McCoy, Joe McKenney, Boston College football coach; Tom McNeeley, Johnny Riley, George McKenna, and the Harrington brothers.

The feature of the athletic entertainment will be a battle royal between five Cuban giants.

By BILL GRIMES

UNDER the management of Mickie MacKay, the Bruins will tackle the Toronto Maple Leaf, tonight at the Boston Garden. Manager Art Ross has departed for a two weeks' vacation and the Bruins will make their first appearance under the guidance of Mickie MacKay against Connie Smythe's wearers of the maple leaf.

Although the Bruins are practically assured of leading the American division of the National Hockey League, it is a different story with the Maple Leafs. The Leafs have been unable to win with any consistency this season and are in fourth place of the International division.

They are still hopeful of displacing the Ottawa Senators and in spite of the game the Bruins have been playing all season, feel that they will move up in the standing at the conclusion of tonight's contest.

Bill Grimes

The Maple Leafs have been showing to better advantage since Frank Nighbor joined their ranks. The former Ottawa star was traded to Toronto a few weeks ago and was assigned to work on the defense. For years Nighbor was the greatest of all center ice men. He was the mainstay of the Senators with a wonderful scoring ability and his uncanny poke checking.

On the defense Nighbor has been as effective as he was on the front line and due to his brainy playing the Leafs have looked better since he joined their ranks than they have at any time this season.

TORONTO TEAM FAST

Toronto is represented by a young, hustling team but for some unknown reason they have not been clicking. Before the season opened, the advance dope had the Leafs running away from the other contenders. They have turned in some fine performances but have been unable to maintain the pace.

A year ago Blair and Bailey starred in the N. H. L. but neither player has been up to his 1928-29 form this season. Blair and Bailey are still working on the first line with Hal Cotton, the Pittsburgh cast off, who has been playing the best hockey of his career since he joined the Leafs.

Blair and Bailey have flashed at times but they have not been able to keep at the peak of their form. Cotton has played some fine hockey for Connie Smythe, apparently taking on a new lease of life after shaking off the smoke from Pittsburgh.

Eric Pettinger, who received his baptism of N. H. L. hockey while wearing a Bruins' uniform, and Charlie Conacher, younger brother of the famous Lionel, manager of the New York Americans, are doing good work for Toronto.

Conacher came through with three goals in a recent game, stealing the thunder from some of the over advertised stars. Pettinger is one of the most promising young wingers in the league, and as he is particularly anxious to show the Boston fans that it was a mistake to allow him to go to Toronto, he can be relied upon to give a fine account of himself.

Conacher and Pettinger are winging on the second line with either Primeau or Jackson at center ice.

BRUINS AFTER RECORD

The Toronto defense is composed of Happy Day and George Smith, with Lorne Chabot in the nets, with Frank Nighbor and Duncan substituting for the points.

The Bruins had not been in action for a week, but they have been working out every day under the watchful eyes of Mickie MacKay. The holders of the Stanley Cup are anxious to continue their winning streak, for they have their eyes on the breaking of the N. H. L. point record of 64, which is now held by the Ottawa Senators.

Acting Manager MacKay will start Oliver, Barry and Galbraith with Hitchman and Shore on the defense and Tiny Thompson in goal.

Maloney Risks Big Shot at Miami in Friedman Bout

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

MUST BEAT AL TO STAY ON CARD

JIMMY MALONEY, South Boston heavyweight makes his last start in a Hub ring for five or six months, when he clashes with Al Friedman of Roslindale at the reopening of the Argonne A. A. at Mechanics Building tomorrow night.

Maloney is planning a long rest from his arduous ring duties following his meeting with Mose Bousquillon, French champion, at Miami on Feb. 27.

Since a year ago last May, Maloney has been one of the busiest heavyweights in the game. He has been fighting more than any of the topnotchers and has been piling up a long string of victories.

Chances are that the South Boston man would have flatly refused to meet Friedman but for the fact that the net proceeds of the show will be turned over to the fund for the family of the late Patrolman James Troy.

Maloney risks his bout at Miami in this meeting with Friedman tomorrow night, and while he realizes this, he feels confident. He has trained harder for this bout than for any other match in his career.

Friedman now looms up as a rival for any drawing card in the Hub. He is one of the most popular men developed in the ring in this section in years.

FRIEDMAN CONFIDENT

Friedman, too, is confident of winning. He has accepted a tentative offer to meet Tuffy Griffith, Sioux City heavyweight, in a match proposed for the Hub in March.

Friedman finishes his training in the Hub today.

After his crushing knockout of Big Boy Rawson, Hub fans are expecting almost anything to happen when Friedman steps into the ring.

He carries one of the most dangerous punches of any heavyweight in the game and is out to stop Maloney in tomorrow night's meeting.

There will be no less than two pounds difference in weight when these rivals step into the ring. It is expected that Friedman will tip the beam at 192 pounds and the South Boston man expects to weigh 194 pounds.

While there is more interest attached to this heavyweight bout than any other fistic event in many months, the supporting card promises one of the finest preliminary shows of the year with two 8-round bouts as well as seven 4-rounders.

FORMER AMATEURS CLASH

John Sweeney of South Boston and Jack McCarthy of Roxbury making their first starts in professional ranks will settle a feud which was first launched in amateur ranks. This bout has attracted surprising interest. Sweeney's victory over McCarthy was one of the biggest upsets of the year and now the Roxbury boy is out to even the count.

Another feature of the preliminary card will be the first appearance here of Harry Devine, Worcester lightweight, former national champion and Olympic hero.

Levine now regarded as one of the outstanding lightweights in the East will meet Pancho Villa of New Bedford. Villa's recent victory over Charlie Parker points him out as one of the most promising of the New England crop.

Tickets for the show can be obtained at the new headquarters of the Argonne A. A. at 7 Water st., suite 304. Liberty 2176.

Al Sims Beaten

Taunton, Feb. 11—Eddie Syndman of this city, state amateur champion in the 118-pound class, defeated Al Sims of East Boston in the final by a wide margin.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
"Golf's Greatest Teacher"

SWING SLOWER

With the present ball, and through the years leading up to it during which it became heavier and smaller and consequently faster and longer, there naturally developed a tendency toward lighter woods. Many pros were using 12-ounce clubs and it was reported to me that Jim Barnes had dropped down to 11-ounce bats. Now this will change with the new ball and heavier woods will be in order. This does not mean that we will have woods greatly heavier, but the standard, I should say, will be round 13½ to possibly 15 ounces. A slow swing with a heavy head will be the best wood club policy with the new ball and, therefore, it will behoove players more than ever before to cultivate the slow, rhythmic swing action. With the present ball the best theory called for a light club and more clubhead speed. With the new ball you will do better to adopt the principle of a slower club head and more clubhead weight. If your woods weigh around 14 ounces you are all right.

SHIKAT MEETS TAYLOR IN MAT BOUT

Jack Taylor, Canadian champion, is confident that he will wrest the heavyweight crown from Shikat in the main bout.

Paul Jones, Texas mat ace who came within an ace of defeating Shikat last week with his deadly hook scissors, will meet the bone-crushing George Hagen of Brooklyn, former king of the U. S. Marine heavyweights [illegible].

The "bad man" of the wrestling game, Carl Vogel, giant Lithuanian, whose rough tactics have barred him from many commissions [illegible] rough worker [illegible] Maxos the Greek [illegible].

[illegible] McMillan, popular football star of the University of Illinois, whose flying tackles disposed of Bull Komar last week, will meet a tough customer in Gino Garibaldi, Italian star.

Cy Butts, popular [illegible] wrestler, who has officiated at Tex Avery's shows in the past, expects to have his hands full tonight with the array of rough workers Avery has succeeded in bringing to Boston.

CHICAGO GETS ARMY-N. D. TILT

New York, Feb. 11—The Army-Notre Dame [illegible] game is to be played at Soldiers Field, Chicago, this year.

At the request of Notre Dame officials, headed by the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president, representatives of the United States Military Academy agreed today to re-transfer of the battle to Chicago. The 1931 and 1932 games will be played in New York.

In a statement announcing the transfer, Fr. O'Donnell said the change had been made solely because Notre Dame had insisted upon it in an effort to lighten the Indiana team's arduous schedule for 1930.

Under the original schedule Notre Dame would have come to New York to meet the Army Nov. 29, and then would have been forced to entrain immediately for the West Coast to meet Southern California at Los Angeles, Dec. 6. Players on the team would have had to miss more than two weeks of classes.

With the game transferred to Chicago, the South Bend players will miss no classes for the Army game, Fr. O'Donnell said. The Saturday the game is played will be declared a school holiday at Notre Dame.

Terrier Five Play Rhode Island Tonight

Boston University's varsity basketball five will attempt to chalk up its fourth straight victory of the season against Rhode Island State at Kingston tonight.

In spite of numerous setbacks in the squad's strength due to illness, injuries, and ineligibility, Karlson has whipped a fast combination together which has shown some of the best basketball witnessed in the B. U. gym in years. In the last three home games, the Terriers have decisively trounced Worcester Tech, Middlebury, and Amherst.

In each successive victory, B. U.'s margin of victory has increased until against Amherst, the Terriers came out on the long end of a 45-23 count after demonstrating their best brand of basketball this season.

Karlson will rely on his same lineup tonight that took the floor in the last game against Amherst, namely Marino and Berry, forwards, Nims center, Tripp and Stearns, guards.

McNamara-Belloni Team Leads in Race

Chicago, Feb. 11 (INS)—The veteran team of Reginald McNamara and Gaetano Belloni early today held the lead in the six-day bike race at the Chicago Stadium.

The pair, winners of the last six-day bike event in Chicago, wheeled along in undisputed possession of first place, one lap ahead of the entire field.

200 Speed Skaters in Meet at Saranac

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Feb. 11 (AP)—Almost perfect weather conditions greeted nearly 200 speed skaters gathered here from all parts of the United States, and Canada for the opening of the North American amateur outdoor speed skating championships today.

A high wind and snow squalls which threatened during the night to make disagreeable conditions for the events ceased at daybreak and the mercury stood at 6 below zero under a bright sun.

NOTHING WRONG WITH SHARKEY

BRASSILL WILL WORK AT MIAMI

By JACK CONWAY

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 11—Johnny Brassill of Cambridge was today named by Frank Bruen, general manager of Madison Square Garden Corporation, as one of the referees at the Jack Sharkey-Phil Scott show at Miami [illegible] Feb. 27.

Brassill will officiate in one of the [illegible] bouts. [illegible]

[illegible]

Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, and [illegible] of the Argonne Club have asked Bruen to also name Jack Sheehan of Winthrop as one of the referees for the big show here. Brassill and Sheehan were numbered among the referees here for the Battle of Palms last year.

Al Lacy, Sharkey's trainer, has arrived here. He was on the job at Monday's workout. He will work in conjunction with Tony Palazolo. Sharkey now has the same combination which was with him during his three winning fights last year.

Jake Zeramby, Lynn lightweight, is in town. He will remain here until after the big bout. Jake has been spending most of his time in bathing.

Hennessey Wins Over Henry Janco

Fall River, Feb. 11—Frankie Hennessey of Fall River won the verdict from Henry Janco of Lawrence in the hotly contested main bout of the Casino A. A. before 1700 fans. Hennessey had the edge all the way with the contest keeping the spectators on their toes with no knockdowns registered.

Young Lefty, Fall River, won the decision from Al Koziol, Cranston, R. I., by a sensational comeback. In the first round, Young Lefty took a right to the jaw and went to the canvas for the count of nine. He bounded up stronger, however, and put away a wide margin verdict.

Sonny Suggs, Newport, scored a technical knockout over Jackie McCarron of Cambridge in the third round. Billy Nelson, Brockton, won a six-round decision from Battling Silva of Fall River.

In the curtain raiser, Tony Janco, Lawrence, was given the verdict over Young Demers of New Bedford.

Rindge Five Battles Everett for Lead

RINDGE TECH courtmen travel to Everett high tonight for an important Surburban League clash. Both teams have won every game in the Surburban League fray so the winner will have undisputed possession of the top place in the standing of the circuit.

Everett has been weakened [illegible] its last couple of games [illegible]

Jim Manning has his Browne & Nichols crew candidates on the indoor rowing machine each day. Despite the loss of six of the championship eight of last year, prospects are good.

Manning has the knack of taking boys and making them into fine oarsmen, and his crew this season will show the results of that training.

Lorrin Tarleton and Basil Maguire are the veterans of the Henley, England title winners. And little Coxswain White of that splendid eight is back to pilot the boat. The latter is a bundle of pep and good rowing sense and will do a lot to make the eight click along evenly.

German Amateur Boxers Win in N. Y.

New York, Feb. 11—Leonhard Kugler of Germany defeated Ed DeWitt of New York on [illegible] a preliminary bout of the 118-pound class in the amateur boxing [illegible] New York A. C.

Alfred Lehmann of Germany beat Pete Bellino of New York in a preliminary contest in the 160-pound class. In another 115-pound contest Werther Aicelli of Italy, outpointed Louis Oddino of New York.

All the bouts are for three rounds except in the case of a draw where the judges can order another round to decide the contest.

3 Tufts Matmen on Injured List

The Tufts wrestling team, which won its first meet of the season at Springfield Saturday night, started preparation for the Williams College meet which takes place next Saturday night at Middletown, Ct.

Lee Wilkinson, one of the best 175-pounders the Jumbos have this season, will probably be out of the meet, suffering from an infected ear. Sawyer, Foster and Henry Lasley of Gloucester are also on the injured list.

An Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Beatrice Fairfax

IF some [illegible] were [illegible] with an [illegible] to supply the golden texture of a permanent [illegible] and hap[illegible]

[illegible] We could safely assert [illegible] that an American girl of 14 could not be cast for [illegible] romantic role. H[illegible] would she have to be?

In [illegible] conventional [illegible]

[illegible] tense love for a youth who [illegible] ly wished to marry her and of whom personally [illegible] approved. What would be your attitude?

Would you laugh kindly at the whole matter, repeating the [illegible] phrases about [illegible] and assuring the dear [illegible] that while their aff[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] an emotional experience that [illegible] to be taken seriously?

Would you even be afraid that, yielding to this early love and marrying the first of her suitors she might be so unfortunate as to learn the meaning of real love when it would be too late?

Or, taking a more old fashioned [illegible] would you [illegible] first love [illegible] poetry and romance?

Many of us have pioneer great[illegible] grandmothers who [illegible] and who were [illegible] sitting in [illegible] a sunny window [illegible] have been more [illegible] than those first years of [illegible] when the hired one boy [illegible] himself [illegible] into a great great grandfather with a beard.

I [illegible] the belief in those [illegible] a girl had to have experience of life before she was capable of the experience of love [illegible] childhood then.

One of [illegible] that child [illegible] Girls of 14, if [illegible] of prosperous [illegible] are treated now [illegible] as children, while [illegible] they were [illegible] women or "young ladies," and in [illegible] day they were heroines of romance.

Again, our age has seen a re[illegible] freeing of women in [illegible] directions. So that girls, finding there were so many things [illegible] they were privileged [illegible] to do [illegible] understand [illegible] unnaturally [illegible] properly be [illegible] in the background for a [illegible]

Girls have been told that they must cultivate acquaintance with many men before deciding to love one of them. Discover life, we say, before allowing yourself to love seriously.

A girl particularly far-sighted in arranging her permanent love affair might not have time to be a fallen before she was twenty five.

We may have sixteen year old [illegible] capable of [illegible]

[illegible] flower that [illegible] on the very [illegible] of womanhood and sometimes mysteriously doesn't fade.

It will be, instead, the judiciously deferred love that is based on deliberate choice and that is concerned with scientific mating and with family "budgets" and with possible divorce.

Ours is not a romantic age.

Three Hot Supper Dishes

PARTICULARLY in cold weather [illegible] it is more satisfactory [illegible] taking some friends home for a quick supper after the theater or getting up a quick supper after an impromptu game of bridge, to have a hot dish, particularly a creamed dish either made in the chafing dish or with the aid of a table [illegible] anything of chafing dish type, so that the food may be prepared in front of the guests. In cold weather a hot dish always seems more acceptable than a cold salad, even if coffee is served with it.

Martha Lee

In the sardine newburg given below, the dish may be made without the hard cooked eggs, which may not be in the house. And in the case of the next recipe the chicken and corn may be made without the chopped nuts.

SOUTHERN CREAMED CHICKEN AND CORN

Slice ½ cup of mushrooms and cook them and ½ cup chopped nuts in 3 tbsps butter for 5 minutes, being careful not to brown. Add 3 tbsps. flour and stir smooth. Add mushroom liquor and 2 cup milk slowly, stirring constantly until smooth and creamy. Add 1 chicken bouillon cube, salt and paprika to taste, 1 cup canned corn, 1½ cups cold roast chicken cut up, and 1 slightly beaten egg yolk. Have mixture very hot. Serves 8.

Here is another dish, more homey in character, but which is a favorite with many people.

CREAMED DRIED BEEF

Frizzle contents of 2 3½-oz jars of dried beef in 6 tbsps of butter for about 5 minutes. Add 6 tbsps. flour and stir smooth. Mix 2½ cups evaporated milk and 2½ cups water and add slowly, stirring constantly until creamy. Serve hot on toast. Usually pepper is all the seasoning you need. Serves 8.

SARDINE NEWBURG

Make a cream sauce of 2 tbsps. butter, 3 tbsps. flour, 2 cups light cream, 1 tbsp lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. Add 1 slightly beaten egg yolk. Add 2 hard-cooked chopped eggs and 2 4-oz. cans of boneless and skinless sardines broken in rather large pieces. Heat and serve on [illegible] pieces of toast. Serves 6.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

Watch Your Child's Eyes

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

DURING the short vacation which comes around the Christmas holidays, it might be very wise for you to take your child to a competent oculist and see if the youngster's eyes are in good condition.

An amazing statement was made lately by the Maryland Society for the Prevention of Blindness. It announced that about 12 per cent of all school children have defective sight. That estimate makes you pause and wonder, doesn't it? And it is worth considering seriously in connection with your own child?

Even though your child does not complain of it being hard to see, or of pains in the region of his eyes, there are other signs which point to the fact that his eyes need attention.

A child who is properly fitted to glasses early enough need not fear that he will have to wear them all his life. They may serve to eradicate the trouble entirely in a few years.

Watch your school child for eyestrain, such as reading in a bad light, reading while lying down, or reading, as often happens, away into the twilight without realizing that it is time to turn on a light.

And encourage the "sight conservation" classes when your town gets around to attempt to install them.

Lovejoy -:- Serial by Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER 28

"NOW, don't let her [illegible] her head that you're giving her this money to [illegible]" she said, taking a $50 bill from [illegible] "Tell her you're going to get a man and wife for you in the new house [illegible] discharge her and give her this instead of notice."

Lovejoy took the bill.

"I once had a maid who did this very same sort of thing," Aline went on, draining her glass of orange juice. "And that's why I'm so careful about getting telephone calls and letters from my beaus here at the house now. [illegible] Sam Oliver [illegible] last night and I told him to wire me in your name this morning. You'd better skip along home or Hilda will get his telegram when it comes."

Lovejoy "skipped along" home in a great hurry.

Hilda was washing the breakfast dishes, singing to herself as she worked.

"A telegram didn't come for me while I was gone, did it?" Lovejoy asked her pleasantly. She meant to be pleasant and sweet with Hilda just as if she liked and trusted her.

Hilda nodded.

"The telegraph company telephoned the message a few minutes ago," she said. "I [illegible]"

"You took it!" Lovejoy's determination to be pleasant and kind vanished into thin air. "Why, what right had you to take my telegrams over the telephone?—You get into that room of your, pack up your things and get out of this house just as fast as you can! Do you hear me?"

Hilda took her wet reddened hands out of the dish-water and turned around to face her.

"Don't you talk to me like that you bad woman!" she said stolidly. "It's you that ought-ta be throwed out of this house instead of me. You, with a good husband, caring one with not one man, Missus, but two! Don't you think I don't know all about you!"

Lovejoy began to feel sick and dizzy with fright.

[illegible] that telegram was [illegible] to this house," Hilda said. "But it wasn't. It was [illegible] and I got it."

She nodded her big flaxen head [illegible]

"I got two of them letters that you're always waiting for," she added. "I got them where you won't get them. At my girl friend's house all locked up. [illegible] I think I'm going to show them to Mister. He ought to know what's going on. He ought to know how you're do[illegible]"

[illegible] linoleum covered floor [illegible] tried to tell herself that she [illegible] in any real danger; that the letters were Aline's, and it could be proved that they had been written to Aline.

"Hilda," she said desperately, holding to the edge of the table for support, "Hilda, what would you say if I told you that those letters weren't written to me? What would you say if I told you that that telegram that came this morning was not for me but for one of my women friends?"

"I'd say you was lying somethin' fierce," Hilda replied promptly and simply.

"Listen," she said after a little pause. "Listen, it ain't only letters and telegrams I know about. I know about the man that telephones you right here at the house sometimes, and I heard you call him up the night Mister went out to play cards. I heard you call him 'Steve' on the telephone."

Lovejoy gasped.

"I guess that's who sent the telegram this morning, too," the girl went on. "It was signed with just the first letters of his name—'S. O.' But I guess that was the man you call 'Steve' all right. I guess I ain't so dumb I shouldn't know that."

Lovejoy couldn't speak for a moment.

Sam Oliver, Steve Oglebay, she was thinking . . . Why, the two men had the same initials! And if [illegible] that telegram [illegible]

[illegible] Was that bein' nice to me?" asked Hilda [illegible]

[illegible] "Maybe I haven't been nice [illegible] but I meant to be. I've always liked you, and I want to be [illegible] to you now."

She took Aline's [illegible] from the pocket of the sweater she was wearing.

"I want to give you this," she said. "I know we never can be friends after this morning. I know you'd rather get another job. But you take this and give me the telegram and the letters that you have. Won't you?"

FAIRLY BROAD STOCK LIST SHOWS GAINS

By STANLEY W. PRENOSIL

New York, Feb. 11 (AP).—The stock market shook off an ea[illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] top of steel, amusement [illegible]

Gains of 1 to 6 points were distributed over a fairly broad list [illegible] attempted [illegible] trading [illegible] in volum[illegible]

GASOLINE LOWERED

Business news was mixed. Reports of a sharp increase in crude production last week were accompanied by a reduction of 1 cent a gallon in the tank wagon price of gasoline in New York and New England by the Standard Oil Company of New York.

Iron Age reported that "steel demand [illegible] holding its own, but [illegible] be maintained."

Fox Film broke 3 points at the opening on reports of a hitch in [illegible] being scheduled for a hearing late this afternoon, but had made up [illegible] by early afternoon. Union Pacific broke 9½ points to [illegible] presumably influenced by a downward revision of earlier earnings estimates.

RUBBERS RUN UP

Goodyear Rubber, in which the Eaton interests of Cleveland recently acquired a large interest, ran up 6 points to a new 1930 [illegible]

U. S. Steel common crossed 184 for a gain of nearly [illegible] extended its gain to 3 points and Vanadium [illegible] Works, American [illegible] Westinghouse Electric, American Woolen [illegible] International [illegible] Elliott Fisher and Auburn Auto.

BANK DEPOSITS SET RECORD

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 11 (INS)—Savings deposits in all Connecticut banks increased $1,062,913 [illegible] new high total of $851,615,[illegible] in 1929, according to a certification made to the State Treasurer today by Tax Commr. William H. Blodgett on the amount of tax banks will pay to the state this year.

The tax on these deposits amounts to $1,061,713 [illegible] $1,158 more than a year ago. It was payable in two installments on Feb. 20, and July 20.

The total deposits in savings banks of the state increased $7,765,918.71 during the year with a total of $627,339,057.

Savings departments of [illegible] companies increased deposits $4,083,134 to a total of $149,939,514.

Steel Operations Are Again Higher

New York, Feb. 11.—The ingot production of United States Steel Corp. is now between 83 per cent and 84 per cent of capacity, against about 80 per cent a week ago and 77 per cent two weeks ago. Independents are running at about 76 per cent, against 73 per cent last week. For the entire industry the average is between 79 per cent and 80 per cent, against 76½ per cent in the previous week. At this time last year United States Steel was running at 82 per cent, independents at 84 per cent and the average slightly better than 86 per cent.

Increase for Otis Elevator Approved

New York, Feb. 11.—The Otis Elevator Co. stockholders voted to increase authorized common to 2,500,000 shares from 500,000. New stock is to be no-par, against $50 par for present shares. Increase is to provide stock for a four for one split up of present shares.

Stock Exchanges to Be Closed in Honor of Lincoln

New York, Feb. 11.—In observance of Lincoln's Birthday, the banks, clearing houses, security exchanges and commodity exchanges will close tomorrow. The New York Stock Exchange, New York Curb Exchange, Cotton Exchange, Produce Exchange and many of the large wholesale houses will be closed, also the New York clearing house and all banking institutions in the financial district.

The Boston Stock Exchange will be closed tomorrow.

Irregularity Is Keynote; Hope Gains Ground

February Holding January Recovery; Will Bonds or Stocks Lead?

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—Irregularity is the keynote in industry, in employment, in agriculture, in trade, in stocks. The undertone, however, is gradually becoming somewhat firmer.

B. C. Forbes

The two most important developments of last week were the very sharp declines in wheat and cotton and the reduction in the New York official rediscount rate and in Wall Street money rates.

Speculation unquestionably is playing a part in depressing the commodity markets. It is hardly conceivable that the downward movement can be carried much further.

Spot cotton broke below 15 cents at New Orleans and at various other centers. This represents a loss of nearly 3 cents in less than a month. The staple is well below the price advanced to borrowers by the Farm Board, whose operations thus far have lamentably failed to establish confidence either in cotton or wheat quotations. Notwithstanding light exports and dullness in our domestic textile industry, cotton looks cheap rather than dear at current levels.

It may well be that the spread of cheaper money will prove a stimulating influence on commodity exchanges.

New York money rates are, generally speaking, the lowest in more than 18 months. Following Thursday's cut in the Federal Reserve rate from 4½ to 4 per cent call money did not go above 4 per cent; time rates were reduced ¼, to 4½ to 4¾ per cent for short periods; commercial paper was done at as low as 4½ per cent, while bankers' acceptances were quoted 3¾ to 3 per cent up to four months. At this time last year call money commanded 9 per cent, time funds 7½ to 7¾ and commercial paper 5½ to 5¾ per cent.

It was repeatedly pointed out in this column during the days of rising money rates, rising loans and rising stock prices, that when the will to sell stocks should finally set in, cheap money would not of itself and by itself prevent the stock market from collapsing. Money assuredly is cheap enough now, yet the security markets have been able to do relatively little simply because the will to buy is not overwhelmingly stronger than the will to sell.

Conditions on the stock exchanges reflect reasonably accurately the economic conditions ruling throughout the country. While progress—substantial progress—is recorded in two of three conspicuous lines, notably steel and motors, little or no improvement is visible in various directions.

Meanwhile, retail trade continues spotty. Special sales feature endeavors by retailers to turn merchandise into money at a quicker pace than is otherwise possible in the present mood of consumers. So far, however, price-cutting has not been widely carried to injurious lengths.

Bank clearings show a reduction of 23 per cent over early February of last year. Railway car loadings are under one year ago and two years ago. Although some improvement in employment is officially reported, conditions compare unfavorably with 12 months ago. The general price level is the lowest in five years. January commercial failures were record-breaking. An increasing number of companies are conserving resources by reducing or omitting their dividend disbursements.

February thus far has not done better than maintain the gains made last month over December's poor showing. Yet sentiment becomes at least a trifle more hopeful as the stock panic recedes.

The Stock Exchange traditionally is supposed to anticipate by several months the general economic trend. If it has been functioning accurately since the opening of the year, fairly substantial improvement in conditions may be expected. Stocks last week touched the highest point since the collapse. Bonds also reached a new peak for the year, although investment bankers complain that the public's appetite for interest-paying obligations still is quite sluggish.

The prevailing disposition among investors and speculators is to act cautiously until more definite signs appear as to how industry and trade are to move. Also, stocks are now being selected for their earnings and dividend showing, not because of alluringly-painted prospects.

Will investment money go mainly into bonds or into stocks?

That is the question now uppermost in the financial world. My guess is that, notwithstanding the punishment many dabblers in stocks recently received, the temperament of the American people is such that stocks rather than bonds will be favored.

An irregular recovery still seems to be the market's most likely course.

UTILITIES IN LEADERSHIP ON BIG CURB

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, Feb. 11 (AP) After considerable hesitancy in the early trading, the curb market pointed upward under the leadership of the utilities today, in sympathy with trends on the big board.

Gains were largely moderate, however, as progress was impeded by lightening of accounts in preparation for the Lincoln's birthday holiday tomorrow.

Such shares as Electric Bond & Share, American Superpower, American Gas & Electric, American & Foreign Power warrants, and United Light & Power A moved up a point or two. Empire Public Service A, which has been quiet of late, turned active and rose 3 points to the best level in weeks.

Commonwealth Edison jumped forward nearly 10 points in a few odd lot sales, but the Insull stocks generally were inclined to ease under profit-taking during the morning.

Pacific Public Service, a strong feature yesterday, sagged in realizing.

Oils were irregular. Further gasoline price cutting in the eastern market area was somewhat unsettling. Humble slipped back nearly 2 points. Vacuum, on the other hand, advanced about as much, and Ohio Oil was in fair demand. Cities Service was fairly well supported, but made little progress.

The Canadian Pacific new stock ran into further profit-taking. Pennroad, while still active, moved in a narrow range. The new Chesapeake & Ohio shares turned dull. A few of the aviation shares were generally firm.

Dayton Aircraft rallied about a point, and Western Air Express sold up moderately.

Industrials were largely quiet, although Crocker Wheeler was in fair demand.

Aluminum Co., a high priced stock, shot up more than 10 points in a few sales.

COTTON PRICES ARE EASIER

New York, Feb. 11. Cotton opened steady today at unchanged prices to a decline of 4 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables. There was further covering and trade buying, but the demand was less active after the advance of Saturday and Monday and there was some realizing prior to the local holiday tomorrow.

This supplied the early demand and prices eased off, March declining to 15.50 and July to 15.96. Later prices were at about these figures which represented net declines of 11 to 17 points.

The Standard cloth statistics showing a decrease of 1.8 per cent in stock on hand and a decrease of 9 per cent in unfilled orders at the end of January, received comparatively little comment.

The report of the New York Cotton Exchange service estimated domestic consumption for January at 590,000 bales against 453,892 for December and 668,286 for January last year.

Liverpool cables reported that covering and calling had been supplied by hedging and liquidation.

Cotton Stocks on Hand Are Lowered

Production of cotton cloths during the five weeks of January amounted to 323,287,000 yards, or at the rate of 64,657,000 yards per week according to Association of Cotton Textile Mechants of New York. Shipments were 331,481,000 yards, equivalent to 102.5 per cent of production. Sales were 292,034,000 yards, or 90.3 per cent of production.

Stocks on hand at the end of the month amounted to 452,819,000 yards, a decrease of 1.8 per cent during the month. Unfilled orders on January 31 were 391,571,000 yards, a decrease of 9.2 per cent during the month.

Remington-Rand Is Growing in Favor

New York, Feb. 11—Remington Rand seems to be growing in favor with some of the large commission houses which are advising clients that the stock is under-valued when compared with other companies engaged in the manufacture and sale of office equipment. Conservative estimates are that the earnings for the fiscal year to end March 31 next will show somewhat better than $3.50 a share earned on the stock.

Big Steel Is Added to Growing Eaton Combination

New York, Feb. 11—Control of the $25,000,000 Gulf States Steel Co., second largest steel producer in South, has been acquired by Cyrus Eaton interests of Cleveland and company will eventually be included in the enlarged Republic Steel Corp. William H Coverdale of Coverdale & Colpitts, president, will resign in favor of some member of Republic Steel organization. Eaton and his associates said to have been accumulating Gulf States Steel stock in open market since last summer.

Toledo employment in week ended February 2 totaled 25,663, an increase of 178 over the previous week and comparing with 48,111 a year ago.

MUTUAL LIFE'S GOOD PROGRESS IS REPORTED

The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, the first legal reserve mutual life insurance company in America, beginning business on February 1, 1843, reports fine progress in the year 1929.

During the year it established its highest yearly record in volume of new business written, and on December 31, 1929, the total of insurance upon its books was $4,298,774,546.

During 1929 the company paid $16,263,026 in death claims (including double indemnity claims), $3,982,470 for matured endowments, $1,627,251 under annuities, $2,354,896 as income under income settlement provisions under policies, $2,633,105 under disability provisions and $43,361,091 in dividends.

Taxation is always heavy, and is of course arbitrary. During 1929 the company paid $3,105,366.48 for federal, State county and municipal taxes.

On December 31, 1929, the company's assets were $990,934,923.61, and its liabilities, excluding contingency reserve, were $928,085,330.85. The gain in assets was $62,617,644.09.

The contingency reserve (surplus) on December 31, 1929, was $62,849,592.76.

The company believes the future prospects for life insurance are very bright. During the last few years the public has gained a much clearer understanding of life insurance value and use.

The stability and power of life insurance because of vast financial resources widely diversified and because of conservatism through traditional policies and principles and legal restrictions and supervision have been sufficiently demonstrated.

Life insurance is adaptable to many of the financial problems of life, and is the only sure way the average man can at the same time provide financial protection for his family and for his own old age.

Brush Company Is to Act on Feb. 19

New York, Feb. 11—Special meeting of the Pro-phy-lac-tic Brush Co., Florence, Mass., is called for February 19 to approve a reorganization entered into with Lambert Co. It contemplates transfer to P. B. Corp., a Delaware corporation formed by Pro-phy-lac-tic, of certain cash and miscellaneous assets of Pro-phy-lac-tic in exchange for all stock of P. B. Corp., viz., 10,000 shares of no-par common and the assumption of certain liabilities, and distribution of the 10,000 shares of common of P. B. Corp. pro rata among holders of Pro-phy-lac-tic common.

BOND MARKET MOVEMENTS NARROW

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Bonds moved narrowly today on a slightly larger turnover. Prices of prime rails held within small fractions of the Monday close during trading which witnessed a small upward turn in the utilities.

Convertible rails were again fairly active. New Haven 6s lost more than a point of the Monday advance, while Atchison 4½s and Missouri Pacific 5½s eased. Stock feature bonds of other descriptions were rather quiet with the exception of Reading Coal & Iron 6s which rose more than 2 points on active buying. American Telephone 4½s gained about 2 on small sales.

The more popular investment rails included Northern Pacific general 5s, Pennsylvania 4½s, Southern Railway general 6½s and New York Central debenture 4s, but the demand was not sufficient to do more than emphasize the firmness of this pivotal group and its ability to retain last week's advances. Secondary rails were dull.

Cuba Republic 5½s were steady in the face of a $40,000,000 offering of public works bonds bearing the same coupon rate. The new issue matures in 15 years. There were fair turnovers in German Republic 7s, up about half a point, and in British 5½s, unchanged.

Domestic industrials lagged, finding the market dull.

United States government treasury certificates and Liberty bonds were inactive, the earlier transaction showing small recessions.

Aside from the Cuban Loan, the day's new offerings embraced three small issues for the Middle West Utilities system totaling $3,515,000; $4,000,000 in Utah Power & Light first mortgage 5s, due 1944, priced at 99, and $1,850,000 in South Pittsburgh Water Company first lien 5s, due 1944 at 93.

Among the listed utilities there was moderate accumulation of American Telephone 5s, 1965, New York Edison 5s, Duquesne Light 4½s and North American Edison 5½s.

RADIO EARNING FIGURES BIG

Chicago, Feb. 11—Zenith Radio Corporation today reported that net profits for the three months ended January 31, 1930, after all charges except federal taxes were $52,662. For the nine months ended the same day, profits were $130,256.

Paul B. Klugh, vice-president and general manager reported that unsettled conditions which affected the earnings of the corporation prior to January have been met successfully and that January, 1930, showed the largest business in the company's history. For January alone the profits were $57,502, as compared with a loss of $27,273 for the same month a year ago. The company's balance sheet as of January 31 shows an excess of current assets over current liabilities amounting to $1,287,468, with cash on hand of $718,768.

"The company has established a modern cabinet plant," said Mr. Klugh, "which in addition to the two plants previously operated, gives the Zenith company control over the making of all elements and parts for Zenith sets.

"The inventory consists entirely of raw materials and the company has no manufactured sets on hand. It is producing and shipping only on definite order from wholesale distributors which are sufficient to give the company satisfactory volume in the spring months. The inventory of stock by distributors on February 1 is the smallest reported during the last three years."

Mr. Klugh said that the company has established a stabilization of its business and that a solid and substantial future is assured. He said he expects to see the general level of prices on radio receivers sharply advanced by next summer.

Consolidated Lead

Consolidated Lead & Zinc Co. 1929 net equals $1.09 a share on 250,000 combined no-par Class A and B shares, against 34 cents on 200,000 combined shares in 1928.

PUBLIC UTILITY HOLDING IS IN INT. PAPER

New York, Feb. 11—The proposed transfer by Public Utility Holding of America of Portland Electric Power Co. to Central Public Service Corp. is an important step in extension of Public Utility Holding Corp.'s investments. Upon transfer of Portland Electric Power Co. to Central Public Service System the holding corporation will have approximately $10,000,000 in cash. Furthermore, over 23 per cent of total net earnings of Central System, after preferred stock dividends, will accrue to Class A and voting common stocks of Central Public Service System to be owned by Public Utility Holding Corp.

Check up of activities of Public Utility Holding Corp. reveals holdings in International Power & Paper Co., and Associated Gas & Electric Co. With respect to holdings in Federal Light & Traction Co., plans of the management are still in a formative stage.

Because of Public Utility Holding Corp.'s connection with Harris, Forbes & Co., special opportunities are provided it for building up utility stock holdings in companies for which Harris, Forbes & Company are bankers.

With proposed acquisition of Portland property, in addition to its ownership of the Seattle Gas Light Co., Central Public Service Corp. would supply two most important cities of Pacific Northwest, one with gas and the other with electric light and power as well as other utility services.

New Haven Orders Regular Dividends

New York, New Haven & Hartford declared regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 on common and $1.75 on preferred payable April 1. Following the New Haven directors' meeting a committee of directors and officers held an informal conference to discuss the New Haven's position in regard to the Southern New England Railway project, the completion of which is being urged by a group of prominent business men. No announcement was made as to what transpired at the meeting. Those attending were: J. J. Pelley, president; E. G. Buckland, chairman of the board; Benjamin Campbell vice-president in charge of traffic; Joseph H. Nuelley, president of New York, Ontario & Western; Col. Frank Matteson and Edward Milligan, both New Haven directors.

Grain Stabilizing Board Is at Work

Washington, Feb. 11 (INS)—The first stabilizing corporation to come into existence since the enactment of the farm relief act today began to function as the Grain Stabilization Corporation with an initial credit of $10,000,000 from the federal farm board.

Its business will be to buy and sell wheat. It is composed entirely of qualified Capper-Volstead grain co-operatives and its membership is open to all such co-operatives. All its profits or losses will fall upon the revolving fund provided in the agricultural marketing act.

Western Electric Rights Are Given

Western Electric stockholders of record February 17 have been offered right to subscribe to 750,000 shares of additional common in ratio of one new share for each seven held at $30 a share. Subscriptions are payable on or before March 31, 1930.

President Bloom stated the new stock will bring outstanding shares to 6,000,000 and proceeds of the offering, amounting to $30,000,000, will be used to finance expansion of manufacturing facilities in progress.

Hoffman Income Is $581,834 for 1929

U. S. Hoffman Machinery Corp. reports for 1929 net income of $581,834 after interest, federal taxes, amortization, etc., against $953,243 in 1928.

STRIKE NEARS END; 1 DEAD

New York, Feb. 11 (AP)—Settlement of the garment strike, marked by one killing and numerous riots, appeared near today after 7000 of the 35,000 workers involved reached a tentative agreement with their employers.

Jacob Rothenberg, an open shop dress manufacturer, was the man killed. He died in Bellevue Hospital of a fractured skull shortly after he had been felled by a blow on the jaw in a disturbance near his shop at 39th st. and Broadway. Irving Ashkenas 27 years old, a chauffeur, was held on a charge of homicide.

The agreement reached was between the affiliated dress manufacturers, Inc., or "inside shop" manufacturers, and their employes. It was subject to a vote of ratification by both sides today.

High School Girl Found by Roadside

Worcester, Feb. 11—Police and doctors were unable today to unravel the mystery of the finding of Edna Starbard, 16-year-old Worcester High School of Commerce pupil, semi-conscious beside the state road between this city and Auburn, where she lived.

Doctors said she was not bruised but was suffering somewhat from exposure. She told them she could not remember what happened. Her mother, Mrs. Stephen Starbard of Stone st., Auburn, said she previously had a similar lapse of memory. The girl believes she fainted, but cannot account for not being on the bus on which she usually rode home from school.

The domestic help problem is solved by taking a kitchenette apartment and the best are advertised daily in the For Rent columns.

PITMAN, R. I. EDITOR, DIES

Philadelphia, Feb. 11 (AP)—Theophilus T. Pitman, who for more than 50 years was the publisher of the Newport (R. I.) Daily News, died in Germantown hospital from heart disease.

He was 87 and had been confined to the hospital for six weeks. Mr. Pitman came here during the holidays to visit his sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred P. Powers.

He is survived by Mrs. Powers and a niece, Mrs. F. C. Sharp, of Madison, Wis. His body will be sent to Newport.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR OCEAN MAIL SERVICE.

Post Office Department, Washington, D. C., January 17, 1930.—Proposals will be received at the Office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General in the City of Washington until the time indicated in connection with each route for ocean mail service on the routes hereinafter described for the terms herein specified, pursuant to the Merchant Marine Act, 1928. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Route No. 19—From New York by Port-au-Prince and Kingston to Puerto Colombia and/or Cartagena, including service to any other ports at which contractor's vessels may voluntarily call, on a schedule satisfactory to the Postmaster General, of approximately 52 trips per annum. The contractor will be required to operate in performance of service on this route vessels of Class 6, capable of maintaining a speed of 10½ knots at sea in ordinary weather, and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 2,550 tons, provided that the contractor shall substitute for vessels originally accepted, a minimum of three vessels of Class 4, two of which at least shall be new, capable of maintaining a speed of 16 knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 5,000 tons, with first-class accommodations for not less than 100 passengers and with cargo refrigeration space of approximately 20,000 cubic feet, to be put into operation as follows: One such vessel, which shall be new, to be put into operation not later than the end of the third year from the beginning of service under the contract, and one additional such new vessel to be put into operation not later than the end of the fourth year from the beginning of service under the contract, and a third vessel meeting the same requirements but which need not necessarily be new to be placed in operation not later than the end of the fifth year from the beginning of service under the contract. The contractor and the Postmaster General may agree upon the operation of additional vessels of Class 4 and/or other classes. Classifications of vessels on this route are based upon speed without regard to tonnage. The term of this contract shall be for ten years beginning at a date optional with the contractor, but not later than three years from the award of the contract. Bond required with bid, $5,000. The accepted bidder will be required to execute a contract with a bond of $200,000. Bids for this route will be received until 12 o'clock noon February 25, 1930.

Route No. 35—From New Orleans or other Gulf port to Rio de Janeiro and/or Santos and/or Rio Grand do Sul and/or Montevideo and/or Buenos Aires and/or Rosario and/or Santa Fe and/or Bahia Blanca, including service to any other ports at which vessels may voluntarily call, on a schedule satisfactory to the Postmaster General of not less than 36 nor more than 52 trips per annum (subject to other provisions of this advertisement for increase or decrease of frequency). The contractor will be required to operate in performance of service on this route cargo vessels of Class 6, capable of maintaining a speed of 10 knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 1,900 tons, provided that the contractor shall substitute four vessels of Class 5, capable of maintaining a speed of 13 knots at sea in ordinary weather, with accommodations for not less than 25 passengers each, and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 4,900 tons, two such vessels to be put into operation within one year from the beginning of service under the contract and two additional such vessels to be put into operation within two years from the beginning of service under the contract, and provided further that the contractor shall substitute two new vessels of Class 5 with limited passenger accommodations and suitable refrigeration space, capable of maintaining a speed of 13 knots at sea in ordinary weather, and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 4,900 tons, one such new vessel to be put into operation not later than six years from the award of the contract and the second such new vessel to be put into operation not later than seven years from the award of the contract. In the discretion of the Postmaster General the contractor may be required to put into operation two new vessels of Class 4, capable of maintaining a speed of 16 knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 4,900 tons, in lieu of the two new vessels of Class 5. The contractor and the Postmaster General may agree upon the operation of additional vessels of Classes 4 and 5 and/or other classes. Classifications of vessels on this route are based upon speed without regard to tonnage. The term of this contract shall be ten years beginning July 1, 1930, or such subsequent date as the Postmaster General may find it necessary to designate. Bond required with bid, $5,000. The accepted bidder will be required to execute a contract with bond of $200,000. Bids for this route will be received until 12 o'clock noon March 31, 1930.

Route No. 40—From New York by Havana and Cristobal to Port Limon, including service to any other ports at which contractor's vessels may voluntarily call, on a schedule satisfactory to the Postmaster General of approximately 26 trips per annum from the beginning of the contract term, with an increase in frequency to approximately 52 trips per annum from the beginning of the second year of the contract term. The contractor will be required to operate in performance of service on this route combination fully refrigerated passenger and cargo vessels of Class 5, capable of maintaining a speed of 13 knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 7,200 tons; provided that the contractor shall as soon as practicable after the beginning of performance, but not later than three years from the award of contract, place in service as additions to or substitutions for vessels originally accepted, three new combination passenger and cargo vessels of Class 4, capable of maintaining a speed of 16 knots at sea in ordinary weather, with accommodations for not less than 80 first-class passengers and all cargo space fully refrigerated, and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 6,000 tons. The contractor and the Postmaster General may agree upon the operation of additional vessels of Class 4 and/or other classes. Classification of vessels on this route are based upon speed without regard to tonnage. The term of this contract shall be for ten years beginning two years from the date of the award of the contract. Bond required with bid, $5,000. The accepted bidder will be required to execute a contract with a bond of $200,000. Bids for this route will be received until 12 noon, February 25, 1930.

Route No. 41—From New Orleans by Havana and Cristobal to Cartagena and/or Puerto Colombia, including service to any other ports at which contractor's vessels may voluntarily call, on a schedule satisfactory to the Postmaster General, of approximately 52 trips per annum. The contractor will be required to operate in performance of service on this route combination passenger and cargo vessels [illegible]

[illegible] route two new vessels of Class 1, capable of maintaining a speed of 28 knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 45,000 tons. The contractor and the Postmaster General may agree upon the operation of additional vessels of Class 1 and/or other classes. Classifications of vessels on this route are based upon speed without regard to tonnage. The term of this contract shall be for ten years beginning at a date optional with the contractor, but not later than three years from the date of the award of contract. Bond required with bid, $10,000. The accepted bidder will be required to execute a contract with a bond of $300,000. Bids for this route will be received until 12 o'clock noon, February 25, 1930.

Route No. 43—From New York by Plymouth and Cherbourg to Hamburg, including service to any other ports at which contractor's vessels may voluntarily call, on a schedule satisfactory to the Postmaster General of approximately 52 trips per annum. The contractor will be required to operate in performance of service on this route three vessels of Class 3, capable of maintaining a speed of 18 knots at sea in ordinary weather, one vessel of Class 4, capable of maintaining a speed of 16 knots at sea in ordinary weather, and one vessel of Class 5, capable of maintaining a speed of 14 knots at sea in ordinary weather, provided that the contractor shall substitute for vessels originally accepted for service on this route, two new combination passenger and cargo vessels of Class 2, capable of maintaining a speed of 20 knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 20,000 tons as soon as practicable, but not later than five years from the date of the award of contract. The contractor shall furnish the Postmaster General within 30 months from the date of award of contract satisfactory evidence of its intention and ability to proceed with the construction of the two new vessels required. The contractor and the Postmaster General may agree upon the operation of additional vessels of Class 2 and/or other Classes. Classifications of vessels on this route are based upon speed without regard to tonnage. The term of this contract shall be for ten years beginning at a date optional with the contractor, but not later than twelve months from the date of the award of contract. Bond required with bid, $5,000. The accepted bidder will be required to execute a contract with a bond of $200,000. Bids for this route will be received until 12 o'clock noon, February 25, 1930.

Route No. 44—From New York by Plymouth to London, including service to any other ports at which contractor's vessels may voluntarily call, on a schedule satisfactory to the Postmaster General of approximately 52 trips per annum. The contractor will be required to operate in performance of service on this route combination passenger and cargo vessels of Class 5, capable of maintaining a speed of 13 knots at sea in ordinary weather and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 7,000 tons. The contractor and the Postmaster General may agree upon the operation of vessels of other classes. Classifications of vessels on this route are based upon speed without regard to tonnage. The term of this contract shall be for five years beginning on a date optional with the contractor but not later than three years from the date of the award of the contract; provided, however, that this contract shall be automatically extended for an additional five-year period, if the contractor shall within six months prior to the expiration of the first five-year period furnish the Postmaster General with satisfactory evidence of its intention and ability within the ensuing three years to construct, in American yards, two new vessels of Class 3 capable of maintaining a speed of 18 knots at sea in ordinary weather, and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 7,000 tons, or within such three-year period to place in said service two vessels rebuilt or reconditioned to the satisfaction of the Postmaster General having not less than the characteristics above set forth, and upon extension of the contract term upon said conditions the contractor shall put the said two new vessels or the two rebuilt or reconditioned vessels into operation within three years of the beginning of the period of extended service accordingly. Bond required with bid, $5,000. The accepted bidder will be required to execute a contract with a bond of $100,000. Bids for this route will be received until 12 o'clock noon, February 25, 1930.

Route No. 45—From New Orleans or other Gulf port to Valencia and/or Tarragona and/or Barcelona, Spain, and/or Oporto, Portugal, and/or Santander and/or Passages, Spain, on a schedule satisfactory [illegible]

[illegible] the necessary and [illegible] the contractor to substitute two new combination passenger and cargo vessels of Class 3, capable of maintaining a speed of 18 knots at sea in ordinary weather, and of a gross registered tonnage of not less than 12,000 tons, such new vessels to be put in operation by such dates during the remainder of the contract term as the Postmaster General may require, or if the Postmaster General determines that replacements are not necessary he may reduce the pay after the expiration of five years of the contract term, and the contractor shall have the right to accept the reduced pay or relinquish the contract. The contractor and the Postmaster General may agree upon the operation of additional vessels of Class 3 and/or other classes. Classifications of vessels on this route are based upon speed without regard to tonnage. The term of this contract shall be for ten years beginning at a date optional with the contractor, but not later than two years from the date of award of the contract. Bond required with bid, $5,000. The accepted bidder will be required to execute a contract with a bond of $200,000. Bids for this route will be received until 12 o'clock noon, February 25, 1930.

PROVISIONS APPLICABLE TO ALL ROUTES: The mileage on the outbound voyage by the shortest practicable route between the ports specifically stated, shall be the mileage for the basis of bids and of payment for service, any service to other ports at which vessels may voluntarily call to be covered by the pay based on said outbound mileage of the route specifically stated. However, the route may be changed as hereinafter provided. The contractor for service under this advertisement will be required also to carry on return trips parcel post mail of United States origin being returned from foreign countries as undeliverable and any U. S. military or naval mails, such service to be covered by the pay based on the outbound mileage. By mutual agreement of the Postmaster General and the contractor, contract may be terminated on or after five years from date thereof, and by like mutual agreement the rate of pay may be changed to accord with legislation hereafter enacted by Congress. Within one year, or as otherwise provided, from the date of award of contract and at such times thereafter as the Postmaster General shall require, the contractor shall furnish evidence satisfactory to the Postmaster General of its intention and ability to place in service the vessel or vessels required within the time or times specified. In the event of failure so to furnish satisfactory evidence, the Postmaster General may annul the contract. In case vessels be taken from the route by authority of the United States for national defense or during any national emergency, or vessels become unavailable for operation on the route because of force majeure, the Postmaster General and the contractor may agree upon the suspension of service or termination of the contract without penalty for failure of performance or liability upon either party. The Postmaster General and the contractor may agree upon the construction and/or operation of higher or lower class vessels and for a greater or smaller number of voyages than those specified. By agreement of the contractor and the Postmaster General, any vessels constructed in fulfillment of the contractor's obligation under this advertisement may be operated on any other American foreign trade or ocean mail route, the mail pay for any such operation to be governed by the authorization of service on the route over which the vessel is operated. In case of refusal of the United States Shipping Board, before the time fixed for the beginning of service upon the route advertised, to authorize a construction loan for the building of new vessels required to be placed in operation thereon, the contractor may be relieved from the obligation of the contract by giving written notice of such intention to the Postmaster General before the time fixed for the beginning of service on said route and the contract shall be null and void. In the event of default by the contractor with respect to any of the provisions of the contract, the Postmaster General may impose fines or other penalties, or may annul said contract. Bids submitted in response to this advertisement shall be subject to any legislation that may be enacted by Congress before the award of contract with respect to the acceptance of proposals for service under the Merchant Marine Act, 1928. Circulars containing complete advertisement, detailed specifications and proposal forms may be obtained from the Office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General, Washington, D. C. — Walter F. Brown, Postmaster General.

Griggs or Granfield?

Today's Congressional Election VERY Important

ALL over the country politicians will sit close to the radio tonight, eager for first news from the Second Massachusetts Congressional District, where a special election is being held to choose a successor to the late Congressman Kaynor.

The district is that in which former President Coolidge makes his home. It is part of the territory long represented in the House by the present United States Senator, Mr. Gillett.

In the election of 1928, the late Mr. Kaynor, a Republican, received 52,344 votes to the 43,856 cast for his Democratic opponent, the Republican plurality being 8488.

Why the special interest, then, in today's election? Why shouldn't the G. O. P. candidate "breeze" in, per usual?

Because of the 18th Amendment, which, here as in so many other places, causes trouble—MUCH trouble—mainly for the Republicans.

There are THREE Republican candidates, one described by the newspapers of the district as a "dry wet," the others pictured by themselves, as "bone drys."

The "regular" Republican nominee is former Representative Frederick D. Griggs, of Springfield. Personally a teetotaller, Mr. Griggs in the Legislature voted with the Anti Saloon League. In the referendum of last Fall, however, the Second District voted "overwhelmingly" in favor of the repeal of the Prohibition Amendment. Mr. Griggs, in consequence, has given his pledge to VOTE for repeal.

HIS name will be PRINTED on the ballot.

The "bone dry" Republicans are former Mayor Feiker, of Northampton, and Whitfield Reid, an attorney of West Springfield.

Feiker's name will NOT be on the ballot, but must be gummed on, with "stickers."

William J. Granfield, Democratic candidate, says the real issue is unemployment, business depression, and what the Government at Washington should be doing about them. There is no question where Mr. Granfield stands on the "liquor" question. As a member of the Legislature, in 1918, he voted AGAINST ratification of the amendment which is causing all the trouble.

These by-elections are important, as straws showing the direction of the political wind.

Congressional committees and National Committees, Republican and Democratic, the Anti Saloon League and the Association Opposed to National Prohibition, are at work NOW on statements which will analyse the vote and tell what it means.

See tomorrow's paper.

Veteran Police Officers

Use Them All Alike

WE are asked to say a word in favor of a bill, recently argued before the Committee on Pensions of the Legislature, "to accompany a petition that provision be made for the retirement of certain members of the Police Department of the City of Boston."

We do not see how anything can be said AGAINST this measure except that, following the legislative custom, it is rather clumsily named.

Properly, this is a Bill to Provide that All Boston Police Officers Shall Be Used Alike, in the Matter of the Retirement Age.

Our policemen number 2418.

Nine hundred and five of them, having joined the ranks since 1925, are cared for under the provisions of the Boston Retirement Act, which became effective that year, and may, if they are able, hold on to the age of 70, when they must be pensioned at three-quarters pay.

Because THEY did not choose to come under the Retirement Act, however, the 1513 other police officers may be retired at the age of 65—with the approval of the Mayor—on half-pay.

The difference in the amount of the pensions is not in question. The newer men, those who are to enjoy the benefits of the Retirement Fund, pay into that fund 4 per cent of their salaries. In other words, THEY are contributing toward their own pensions.

What the OLDER men desire—and among them are 332 who remained on duty when all the rest walked out, in the troubles of 1919—is that they, too, IF FIT, may remain in the service until they reach the age of 70.

Not all of them, of course, will be ABLE to work beyond the age of 65, but for those who ARE fit there are desk jobs and public building assignments the veteran can fill as well as the novice.

This bill ought to pass. The city should not take the position of saying to 905 of its police officers, "YOU may serve me until you are 70 years of age," and to 1513, "YOU will have to quit at 65!"

H. G. Wells Writes on "The Science of Life"

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and Geo. P. Wells

EVERYWHERE on the face of the world, except in lifeless regions and in a very few places where civilized man has built, there are the corpses of living things. In a wood, for example, there are masses of dead leaves, which, with other organic matter, makes a rich rotting layer on the ground.

H. G. Wells

And wherever the corpses are found we find also a host of creatures that feed on their luscious decaying tissues, animals and plants that specialize, so to speak, in well-hung food.

There are beetles and millipedes and worms and grubs of many sorts, and there are bacteria, all fattening on the dead material; but the guests that concern us now at this banquet are the delicate white of blush felts that are known as moulds.

An attractive provender for moulds is stale, moist bread. If a bit of bread be left about somewhere exposed freely to the air, there will soon settle on it a number of the invisibly small, dust-like spores of mould-fungi. Finding themselves well situated, the spores will hatch, and each will give rise to a very thin, white thread.

Seen through a microscope, this protoplasm is revealed to be in continual restless movement, streaming about inside the walls of the delicate threads.

This tangle of white threads is a simple kind of fungus. It has no chlorophyll. It needs organic food, which it gets from the bread in a curious way—by exuding a digestive juice and sucking in a nutritious, digested soup in return.

In fact, it digests like an animal, and the whole world is its stomach, into which it pours enzymes and from which it absorbs the products of their action.

From time to time a branch of one of the threads rises up into the air, and it grows at its free extremity a little globule—black, in the commonest bread-mould. This globule is a spore-case, and in it hundreds of tiny spores are developed, to ripen and be freed and to float in the air in the hope of finding a new piece of dead organic matter to live on.

It is curious to note that in these lowly, creeping threads there is a division into sexes. There are two kinds of threads, and they will only unite with members of the opposite kind. There is not outward sign of any difference—except that one kind often grows more actively and vigorously than the other—neither do they play distinguishable parts during the actual fusion; nevertheless, the fact that there are two strains can be made out clearly.

There is no exact distinction between fungi and algae, except that the former do not possess chlorophyll. As far as form goes, some fungi and some algae are exactly alike. The fungi may be considered as algae which have given up chlorophyll, and the independence which it confers, and taken to digesting and consuming the organic substance of other creatures instead of making their own.

Bread moulds feed on dead matter, but all moulds are not so inoffensive; some prefer their food fresh. They turn their juices against living things and become parasitic digesters of the tissues of living plants or animals.

We may note that both saprophytism (living on the decay of living things) and parasitism (living on live things) occur among plants other than fungi. The disposition to throw up honest productive work and live on the activiy of other beings is as strong in the vegetables as in the animal and human worlds.

Among flowering plants, for example, the bird's-nest orchid is a saprophyte and the dodder and bloomrape are parasites. Such plants, having little or no chlorophyll, are unpleasantly pale.

But these are shameful exceptions in a group of green, independent plants. The fungi, on the other hand, specialize in dependence; every one of their multitude of species (there are tens of thousands) is either a saphrophyte or a parasite.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

ALAS, poor man! After all, his life is something of a struggle, living up to his mother's ideal, his wife's ambitions, his daughter's demands, and his mother-in-law's "predictions."

The modern girl has learned to use her MIND—but three-quarters of her heavy thinking is devoted to the problem of whether to let her hair grow or not.

Rivalry only adds flavor to a man's love. It gives him rather a kick to have to stand in line and struggle with a lot of others for woman's favor. But no woman relishes the thought that she is only "amon gthose present" in a man's affections.

When a man starts in for a love affair these days, the first thing he does is to make a mental note of all the exits and emergency escapes.

The old-fashioned woman used all her wits and both hands to hold onto her husband; but the modern girl fancies that she is sufficiently ambidextrous to hold onto her job and her independence with one hand and keep a man in line with the other.

Many a wife is astonished to see her husband's gallantry suddenly burst into flower at a party, long after it has gone into such a coma at home that she has to pry his feet off a chair before she can sit on it.

Take away a man's fountain pen his pocketknife, his key-ring and his watch, and somehow he feels as though you had robbed him of his last claim to masculine distinction.

Perhaps, all these fluffy new fashions merely signify that woman has reached the point where she has discovered that, in order to be a man's equal, there is really no necessity for being his counterpart.

A woman may lose her illusions about a man, and still love him; but when he wrecks her illusions about HERSELF, her love turns to vinegar.

Words of The Wise Men

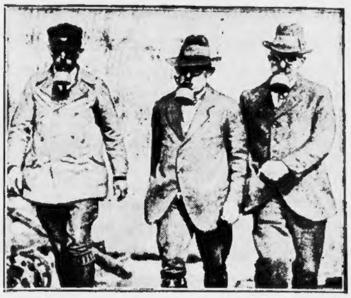
It is the act of the indolent not to know what he may lawfully do. It is praiseworthy to do what is becoming, and not merely what is lawful. —Seneca

Cheerless poverty has no harder trial than this, that it makes men the subject of ridicule. —Juvenal.

May Wear One Some Day

The Latest in Gas Masks

(Copyright, 1930)



MINIATURE GAS MASKS, IN MODERN WEAR

YOU have seen pictures of gas masks worn in the late war, worn now in cases of gas explosion, etc.

The old type mask was enormous, hideous, covering the whole face, making the wearer look like a demon.

Germans have developed a new, simple, easily adjusted gas mask shown in this picture. It looks as though each of the men were holding a dinner bell in his mouth, grasping the handle with the teeth. The simple apparatus is a complete, effective gas mask, such as was used in a recent deadly gas explosion in Hamburg.

With this simple gas mask protector the wearer can safely face poison gases.

But this does not apply to certain gases that attack the skin and eat holes in the body. But these simple masks would protect you in any ordinary "gas bombardment" by airplanes.

It might be as well to get one and know how to use it. There is no telling when the new kind of war will start. It would begin suddenly, in the air above great cities, and it will not be amusing.

Perhaps human decency and intelligence will ward it off for many years, perhaps, even, forever.

But it is just as well to be prepared. The strong are not attacked.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—Broadway's night hawks are roosting in the sandwich parlors after 3 a. m. these days. Reuben, who opened the first "delicatessen divertissement," now has many imitators. And to such havens drift theatrical folk, gamblers, racketeers, gigolos and a sprinkling of morning newspapermen.

Everybody knows everybody and they lean across tables tete-a-tete and, in the unholy Broadway manner, "dish the dirt." No sections of the world or no slices of humanity are so interested in cupping ears to juicy scandal as the nocturnal prowlers of the tattling thoroughfare.

The philandering husband or wife, the actor who lost his job, the chorus girl liaison, the latest gyp and its victim and even the downfall of a "pal" are morsels to be rolled under vicious tongues. None is immune when the sandwich "celebrities" begin to buzz.

Men and women who live hard themselves are invariably eager to hear of their brothers and sisters. They acquire a sort of frenzied ecstacy in learning of disgrace to others. These are the vultures that gather—like buzzards over carrion—for the early morning feast.

As a delver into Broadway sordidness, I know many distinguished and respectable ladies and gentlemen to be under this whispered cloud for years. They are blandly in ignorance of the calumny but wherever they go there are the murmurs sly, sinister and terrible.

Broadway—the Broadway that vanishes with dawn—is not interested in reputations save to tear them to tatters.

Into such a rendezvous the other morning came one of those blond dinner-coated boys who is "on call" to furnish piano selections at apartment house parties. He is the sort whose repertoire always includes his version of "Rhapsody in Blue." For a year or so now he has been picking up $50 a night—thus becoming quite a boy in the Broadway manner. A gang of cronies invited him to join them but, searching for someone, he moved on. The conversation about him that followed was the most disgusting filth this eavesdropper ever heard. Yet a little later he passed the table again on his way out and all waved in friendly fashion, the ring leader calling out: "Bye, old pal!"

Almost every one of these reputation wreckers can tell you—as quick as that—who murdered Arnold Rothstein and what "high officials" are being protected. They know, too, who shot Joe Elwell and what became of Dorothy Arnold. Jimmy Walker and anyone of them are just like that—business of holding two fingers up close together. They can tell you the exact income of every prominent person and the name of his current sweetie—the idea of a notable without a sweetie is to them quite unthinkable.

I sat among them for an hour with a noted war correspondent who has faced death in the jungles, on sea and in the air. As we came out into the crisp chill of the early morning he was silent but after a block or so observed: "I feel as though I should go some place and be fumigated."

It is the city man who maintains no gossip is so cruel as that flying over the back fences at the cross roads. I know about that, too. It is concerned with little incidents in little lives—how much did Mrs. Jones pay for her new bonnet? Did the town banker take a drink while attending the lodge convention in the city and such? Compared to the viciousness of the Broadway brand it is almost a pleasant benediction.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

AH, what study can man find
Like the study of mankind!
Pain and rapture, love and hate,
Weaving patterns intricate,
Make each life and, high or low,
All lives to strange measures flow.

Little do we comprehend
Of the aims of foe or friend.
Who can plumb another's soul?
Who can glimpse a brother's goal?
Who can in our lives define
Cherished dreams of yours or mine?

Yet of this we can be sure:
While the suns and stars endure,
Wheeling in their courses, bright,
Man is groping towards the Light,
Growing ever, groping on,
Man is moving towards the Dawn!
